House Re-Elects Gillett Speaker

INSURGENTS BREAK UP DEADLOCK BY BALLOTING FOR MAJORITY CHOICE

Democrats Jeer at Proceedings and Leaders of Republicans Show Relief That Delay in Organizing Is Now No Longer in Effect

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—After fighting like Kilkenny cats for two days, the Republicans of the sixty-eighth congress buried their differences today and peacefully and prosaically organized congress for business.

Frederick H. Gillett, Republican, of Massachusetts, was re-elected speaker of the house on the first ballot taken. The little band of northwestern insurgents who for two days held the house in deadlock and stopped all congressional business, having won their fight to liberalize the rules, hauled down their colors this afternoon and joined with their Republican brethren of more conservative stripe in putting Gillett over within an hour after the house met.

The Democrats jeered at the proceedings, while voting as usual for Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, the insurgents smiled satisfied smiles of victory and the Republican leadership breathed sighs of relief as the clerk announced the election of the gentleman from Massachusetts.

The result was never in doubt from the time that the name of Beck, of Wisconsin, the first insurgent on the roll call, was reached. Beck, who on eight ballots had voted for Cooper of Wisconsin, said "Gillett" and a scattered hand clapping went up from the Republican side.

Gillett received 215 votes out of a total of 414 cast; Garrett received 197; Martin Madden of Illinois 2, and four members voted present.

The two votes cast for Madden were by Reed of Illinois and James of Michigan.

Makes Statement

The session opened today with a final clash of regulars and insurgents. Representative John M. Nelson, the insurgent leader, arose and asked unanimous consent to make a statement. It was granted. He said:

"A committee of the Progressive group of the house of representatives, consisting of Messrs. Woodruff, La Guardia and myself, met with Majority Leader Longworth last evening and discussed the proposed procedure for a revision of the rules of the house. Mutual assurances were given that the following program would be carried out:

"First—That the rules of the sixty-seventh congress should be adopted as the rules of the sixty-eighth congress for thirty days only.

"Second—That during the thirty days amendments tto the rules may be offered by any member to be offered to the committee on rules, which committee shall consider such amendments and make a report thereon to the house.

"Third—Within such thirty days, the committee shall make a report of the rules and such amendments as they recommend. The rules and amendments as represented by the committee shall be subject to reasonable discussion, amendment and record votes of the house.

"Fourth—When the committee shall have made the report, any member of the house shall have opportunity to offer amendments to any rule of the house and may call for a record vote thereon whether such rule has been included in the report of the committee or not.

"Fifth—One motion to recommit shall be in order."

Cries of Derision

This was "rubbing it in" a bit too much for the regulars, and Representative Begg of Ohio, Wood of Indiana and Anderson of Minnesota, took prompt occasion to inform the house that the agreement read by Nelson had been just what the Republican

COOLIDGE WILL BE CANDIDATE

President and His Friends Jubilant Over Results in South Dakota

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Coolidge is a candidate for the presidency in 1924 and what will amount to a virtual declaration to this effect will be forthcoming from the White House some time today, it was learned this morning.

The president, it was said, plans to acknowledge the action of the South Dakota proposal convention which yesterday nominated him for the presidency and his acknowledgment will be so framed as to constitute an avowal of his intentions.

The president's personal friends and political advisers were jubilant today over the South Dakota results, which placed Mr. Coolidge far ahead of Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican of California, his only opponent to date.

They thought it peculiarly appropriate that the first step toward returning Mr. Coolidge to the White House should be taken in South Dakota, which four years ago started him on his way to the vice-presidency.

REPUBLICANS IN PLATFORM MIXUP

Coolidge Wins Nomination on Johnson's Principles in South Dakota

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 5.—A tangled situation, with a candidate of one faction facing a platform written by those who opposed him, confronted South Dakota Republicans today, following the action of their proposal convention in naming President Coolidge as the Republican presidential candidate adopting the platform framed by the supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson.

By the state law the candidate selected must file in writing with the secretary of state a signed declaration of his willingness to qualify, if nominated and elected, and "to adhere to the principles proclaimed in the platform."

GETS APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The appointment of Colonel Charles N. Saltzman as chief signal officer of the army to succeed Major-General George O. Squier, who retires on December 31, was announced today by Secretary of War Weeks.

THREATEN BLAST IN CLOSED MINE

Unpaid Workers to Blow Up Shaft Unless Salaries Are Paid at Once

DENVER, Dec. 5.—With large charges of powder and fuses already laid in the workings, 225 miners employed in the Rawley mine at Saguache, are threatening to blow up the huge workings unless salaries are paid immediately. The mine was closed down three days ago and since then the men and their families have been living on short rations with two meals a day as the maximum.

More than 100 deputies have been placed on guard, but it is admitted these are insufficient should the men decide to take drastic steps. They have declared, according to information, they will wreck the mine and walk down the mountain canyon in a body.

A shortage of $32,000 in the October payroll is said to have caused the trouble. Steps were being taken this morning to raise the amount necessary to pay off the men and this will be rushed to Saguache by messenger to avert an outbreak.

DANCE SQUABBLE TAKES NEW TURN

Director Would Create New L. A. Political Party to Aid Cause

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—The fight against dance restriction in Los Angeles was given added impetus today following the action of the police commission yesterday in denying the Western Motion Picture Advertisers, commonly known as the Wampus, permission to hold their annual ball until 3 a. m.

Fred Niblo, president of the Motion Picture Directors' association, about whom the trouble started when the police on Thanksgiving eve closed the directors' dance promptly at midnight in accordance with a city ordinance, was out with a new statement today declaring that favorable answers had been received from several of the twenty-two organizations to which he sent invitations yesterday to join in the organization of a new political party.

Frank L. Fox, President of the Fox-Woodsum Lumber Company, and L. H. Wilson, Real Estate Dealer, Directors at Large

By L. B. BARHAM
Of The Evening News Staff.

W. E. Hewitt, first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce and a director in that organization for the past year and chairman of the sewer bonds campaign committee, was elected president of the chamber by a unanimous vote of the new directorate last night.

Mr. Hewitt's candidacy was without opposition, the nomination having been made by A. R. Eastman and seconded by Earl C Pendroy.

With the election of Mr. Hewitt as president, the new directorate assumed office. The gavel was turned over to the new president by Jesse E. Smith, retiring president, the former taking charge of the meeting, which was held in the Chamber of Commerce building. The directors then proceeded to elect the remaining officers, as follows:

D. H. Smith, first vice-president; George B. Karr, second vice-president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer.

Directors at Large

Following the election of officers the directors elected Lloyd Wilson (re-election) and Frank L. Fox as directors at large, to complete the board of directors.

Mr. Fox's election to the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce is a fitting recognition of his enterprise and community spirit manifested during his residence in Glendale. He is president and general manager of the Fox-Woodsum Lumber company, with general offices at 714 East California avenue. Besides the Glendale yards, Mr. Fox controls six other lumber yards in southern California. The bulk of the business, however, is conducted from the Glendale general offices. The main yards are also located here.

Mr. Fox came to Glendale ten years ago. At that time he was operating three other lumber

WANTS PERSHING TO RETAIN POST

Would Retire as Head of Army Upon Reaching Age of 64

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Congress will be asked to permit General John J. Pershing to remain chief of staff of the army just as long as he wants to, Secretary of War Weeks announced today.

Under army regulations, Pershing would be retired when he becomes 64 years old. He will reach this age on his next birthday, September 13, 1924, but Secretary Weeks will ask that the retirement rule be nullified in Pershing's case so he can continue to serve as general of the army.

POLICE DETAIN GIRL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Found hiding in the tonneau of an automobile at Florence and San Pedro street, Ruth Wallen, a young girl, was held by the police today pending an investigation which officers declared they believed would implicate her in a South Main street gas station robbery a few minutes before her discovery.

PLAN SURVEY OF NEWPORT HARBOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Responding to an appeal from a committee of citizens of Orange county, California, the rivers and harbors board of the war department today approved the making of a survey of the harbor at Newport to determine what steps, if any, should be taken for improvement. Congress will be asked to appropriate funds to make the improvement.

CAUSES SENSATION AT OIL INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A stirring scene was enacted at the senate public lands investigation of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease today when H. Foster Bain, director of the United States bureau of mines, refused point blank to reveal whether the bids for the reserve had been open to all oil companies.

BRITISH WIND UP HECTIC CAMPAIGN

Narrow Tory Majority in Next Parliament Predicted by Baldwin Party

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The British political campaign wound up today in a blaze of oratory, and tomorrow the fate of the Baldwin cabinet will be decided at the polls. A feature of the last forty-eight hours of the campaign was the growth of violence and rowdyism in certain quarters. Candidates were threatened and attacked. Lord and Lady Eustace Percy were injured in an election riot at Hastings.

A heavy vote, especially by the women, is expected. Although the result cannot be definitely forecast, it is believed in many quarters that the Tories will have a slight majority in the House of Commons. Liberal and Labor leaders claim that the Tories will not be strong enough to put through Premier Baldwin's protection policy.

DICTATORSHIP IS SOUGHT BY MARX

Asks Reichstag to Grant Him Unlimited Authority to Handle Problems

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—The Reichstag was expected today to pass the measure granting dictatorial powers to the new Marx cabinet. Chancellor Marx, in his maiden speech to the Reichstag yesterday, made formal request that "extraordinary authority" be conferred upon his government so it could deal more effectively with the problems confronting the nation.

The socialists decided to support the measure. The nationalists will oppose it.

MAY DIM LIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5. — Prohibition Director Samuel S. Rutter declared today that he would confer with United States Attorney Williams on the possibility of closing under abatement proceedings the Palais Royale, brightest of San Francisco's "white light" cafes, as an aftermath of a sensational raid on the place in which nine men, including William Wolfe, and the head waiter were arrested.

MEETING IN NORTHWEST SECTION LEARNS DETAILS OF IMPROVEMENT WORK

Councilman Sam Davis Produces Data Out of Los Angeles Records, Also Gives Evidence As to Per Capita Cost of Building

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Every angle of the sewer bond issue, predicated upon the election of January 8, 1924, was gone into thoroughly before experts at last night's well attended meeting of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association, held in the Grand View school and presided over by Alexander Mitchell, president of the association.

Those who addressed the audience and met the rapid-fire barrage of questions were Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilman Sam Davis and Chester A. Smith, engineering expert for the firm of Burns & McDonnell, one of the leading sewer building concerns in the United States, to whom the contract for making the preliminary report on Glendale's $1,600,000 system has been let.

When the meeting closed shortly before 11 o'clock, the audience was practically unanimous in its determination that Glendale must vote the sewer bonds, and many came forward to personally pledge their support to Mayor Robinson and Councilman Davis in the forthcoming campaign to poll a two-thirds majority in favor of the big enterprise.

Mayor Tells City's Efforts for Sewer

Mayor Robinson, who led off the remarks after a brief introduction by Mr. Mitchell, outlined the history of the city's efforts for a sewer system, from the days of the activated sludge idea, through the Lippencott analysis a year ago, to the inception, prosecution and fruition of the plan to connect with the great Los Angeles outfall system, showing how the final securing of the contract now held between the two cities was a matter of slow and patient work on the part of the mayor, Sam Davis, Mattison B. Jones, Marco Hellman and a number of other Glendalians and Angelenos.

Mr. Smith, who followed, opened with the statement that the Burns & McDonnell organization had never before experienced a city of Glendale's size totally without a sewer system, stating that generally it is considered a serious enough matter when a community reaches 10,000 population without adequate sewage disposal facilities.

Taking up each of the five Lippencott proposals of a year ago, Mr. Smith analyzed them and showed why they were not practical for Glendale.

Sewer Farm Not Practical, Is Claim

Going into some detail on Pasadena's sewer farm problem, he showed that the system was unsatisfactory at the present time and giving a great deal of trouble, in addition to requiring constant large outlays of capital to maintain.

The fact that cities so located as Glendale must ultimately

Here Are High Spots In Proposed Sewer System

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

The following description of the proposed Glendale sewer system is given by the firm of Burns & McDonnell, noted sewer engineers:

Trunk line, running from Sixth and Utah streets, Los Angeles, where it connects with the outfall sewer of that city, to Aviation drive, Glendale, a distance of approximately ten miles, at a cost of approximately $1,250,000.

The varying diameters of this trunk line are: From Sixth and Utah streets to the neighborhood of Macy street and Mission road, 48-inch, over rather a steep grade; from there to Alhambra street, 54 inches, on a slighter grade; from there north into Gibson street and into North Main street, 51 inches; from there north to Dayton avenue, near Riverside drive, 54 inches; from there to Glen Eden street, 48 inches; from there across the Los Angeles river to Silver Lake boulevard, 54 inches; from there to Dover street, 42 inches; from there north to Parkdale avenue, 48 inches; from there to Salem street, Glendale, 45 inches; and from there to Aviation drive, 42 inches.

Plan for Nine Intercepting Lines

The nine intercepting lines, four of which make direct connection with the main trunk line above described, will be constructed at a cost of approximately $277,966, it is reported by Burns & McDonnell. The locations of these intercepting lines are:

First—A 12-inch line connecting with the trunk line at Tyburn avenue and Hollydale drive, and following Tyburn avenue through into Gardena avenue, to the neighborhood of Cypress street.

Second—An 18-inch line connecting with the trunk line at Parkdale avenue, and following Parkdale avenue to Palmer avenue, Glendale avenue and Colorado street.

Third—A 12-inch line connecting with No. 2 at Parkdale avenue and San Fernando road, and following San Fernando road nearly to Colorado street.

Fourth—A 15-inch line, connecting with No. 2 at Palmer and Glendale avenues, and following Palmer avenue to Verdugo road and Verdugo road to Colorado street.

Fifth—A 22-inch line, connecting with the trunk line at Colorado street and following Colorado street, Glendale avenue and Harvard street to Sycamore Canyon road, Sierra avenue and Glen Oaks boulevard.

Sixth—A 15-inch line, connecting with No. 5 at San Fernando road and Colorado street, and following San Fernando road north to Chester street.

Seventh—A 24-inch line, connecting with the trunk line at Aviation drive and following San Fernando road to the northwesterly city limits.

Eighth—An 18-inch line, connecting with No. 7 about 1200 feet north of the Verdugo wash and following Palm drive to Dryden street and to Canada boulevard.

Ninth—A 12-inch line, connecting with No. 7 at San Fernando road and Grand View avenue, and following Grand View avenue north to Glenwood road and to Virginia avenue.

Final details will be announced later by the committee chairmen.

MAIL SHOULD BE FULLY ADDRESSED

Letters Without Street or Box Number Will Not Be Delivered

The recent ruling of the postoffice department which requires that all mail addressed to Glendale residents shall have a specific street addreess or box number to guide the clerks or carriers in delivering letters or parcels, is being strictly followed, according to Assistant Postmaster George Hallett. The new order went into effect December 1.

Although patrons of the postoffice have been notified of the new ruling, Mr. Hallett said, many local residents continue to address mail simply to Glendale, without designating the street address or box number of the addressee.

"In that event," Mr. Hallett said, "the mail is returned to the sender, where a return address is carried on the envelope."

Patrons of the postoffice are strongly urged to use care in addressing mail, not only in a legible manner, Mr. Hallett said, but with the full address of the person for whom it is intended clearly shown on the envelope or other mail.

Formerly the directory system was used in delivering mail which bore only the name of the addressee and the city, but, owing to the great amount of work and expense involved in searching the directory to find the street number of the persons addressed, that method was discontinued on December 1.

School Children to Aid Harding Memorial

The plan of the Harding Memorial Commission to have the local school children co-operate with them received the endorsement of the local board of education last night. They ruled that any pupil desiring to do so might bring a contribution next week, but in any case it should not exceed 5 cents.

The paln of the commission is very comprehensive. They intend to purchase the Harding home in Marion, Ohio; erect a beautiful mausoleum and endow a chair of government and diplomacy in some American university. The school children throughout the country have been asked to assist in the project.

FINAL DRIVE IN CHEST CAMPAIGN

President Hewitt Points Out Need for Collecting Balance of Fund

Every citizen of Glendale should know that the closing drive for the Welfare Chest starts tomorrow morning, Thursday, December 6, and continues for just one week, closing Wednesday, December 12, declares W. E. Hewitt, president of the board of directors of the organization.

"The facts must be faced, and faced squarely," declares Mr. Hewitt. "Our budget is $40,000, the minimum amount required to support the fourteen separate organizations participating, including all the prominent charitable and welfare bodies of the city.

"Of this $40,000, we have to date just short of $20,000 In other words, the half-way mark is practically reached. In the week starting tomorrow morning, another $20,000 must be raised. This means that not only new donors must be reached; it means that those who gave before and did not give anything like their just proportion must dig down again, if they have any faith and pride in their city. For, people, of Glendale, we simply must put this drive over. We are pledged to it.

"Fresno has just put over such a drive. Pasadena puts one over every year. Many Southern California cities operate their charities on the Welfare Chest plan, the only efficient, economic plan that has ever been devised. And great northern cities like Oakland and San Francisco are committed to the Community Chest idea. Everywhere it is gaining ground as the logical, inevitable solution of a harassing problem. Is it not natural that a modern, progressive, fast-growing city such as Glendale should adopt such a recognizedly efficient and economical plan?"

The board of directors of the Glendale Welfare Chest is composed of twelve members who were elected by a general welfare council comprising delegates from all local organizations. They are as follows:

Mrs. Lina M. Taylor's Home Looted of $200

Clothes and jewelry to the value of $200 were obtained by burglars last night when they forced an entrance into the residence of Mrs. Lina M. Tayor, 1105 East Monterey road, according to a report made to the poice today.

An investigation in an effort to gather cues that may lead to the identity of the intruders is being made.

COMMITTEE ASKS MULTIPLE LISTS

Report Advocating Changes in By-Laws of Realty Board Presented

The Multiple Listing committee of the Glendale Realty Board met last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to present the report of the investigations that have been carried on during the past five months, with a view to determining a basis on which the entire membership of the board could see their way to participate in the handling of real estate sales under this system.

A number of amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the board were submitted, and these will be taken up by the entire organization at an early date for consideration, when it is expected that the recommendations of the committee will be adopted.

The modified form in which the committee urges the application of the system will, it is believed, find favor with the majority of the board members and permit the board as a whole to lend its unqualified indorsement to the Multiple Listing system.

W. A. Horn is chairman of the committee that has drawn up the proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws to cover the workings of the Multiple Listing.

REHEARSAL HELD FOR MUSIC PLAY

Oratorio Section Glendale Music Club to Present Popular Classic

An enthusiastic meeting and rehearsal was held last night by the Oratorio section of the Glendale Music club, of which Mrs. Charles Parker is chairman, in the auditorium of the local high school. There was a very large attendance and a number of new members were also welcomed.

Following a short business meeting the evening was devoted to the rehearsal of "Elijah," by Mendelssohn, under the direction of John Smallman, which will be presented in April instead of in May as previously announced.

During intermission, Miss Elizabeth Mottern delighted those present with three vocal solos. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Perry J. Rogers, official accompanist of the section. The selections given by Miss Mottern were "When Song Is Sweet" by Salter; "Under the Lantern," by Sanderson, and "Call Me No More," by Charles Wakefield Cadman.

BOARD TO ERECT MORE BUNGALOWS

Additional Facilities for Schools Authorized by Officials

The question of providing housing facilities for the rapidly-increasing number of school children in Glendale occupied the attention of the board at the regular meeting last night.

It was decided to build additional bungalows at the Grand View and Colorado street schools, to be ready for the opening of the spring semester in February. Additional teachers are required for these two institutions and at the present time there is no additional class room available.

Superintendent Richardson D. White was authorized to communicate further with Charles C. Rittenhouse, architect, regarding the erection of a kindergarten at the Magnolia avenue school. It was thought by members of the board that the old building could be torn down and the material used in the construction of the new unit.

Submits Plans

The architect had submitted plans for a building 34 by 56, but it is believed that a smaller room, about 30 by 40, would answer the purpose and would not cost the board so much money.

The board authorized the necessary alterations to provide for a kindergarten at the Pacific avenue school. The work will be done by the board's employes.

Ten extra teachers will be engaged for the extra pupils expected to enroll at the beginning of the spring semester.

Deputy Explains Registration Rule

Editor, The Glendale Eveninw News:—Registration of voters for the sewer bonds closes at midnight Saturday.

There is a provision in the registration laws of California by which the registrations made after January 1 of an even year carry the voting power of a registrant over to April 1 of the following even year. This is how it happens that the voters of Glendale have the right to vote on January 8, 1924. MRS. SIDNEY DELL.

Mrs. Sidney Dell registers voters at the Security Trust & Savings bank, 100 South Brand, during banking hours, and at her home, 928 North Louise street, evenings, after 5 o'clock.

THIEVES SECURE $600 IN ROBBERY

Clothes, Silver and Jewelry Taken From Residence of Seymour Thompson

Forcing a side window, burglars entered the home of Seymour Hardy Thompson, 110 Gilbert street, between 7:45 and 9:30 last night and escaped with jewelry, silverware and money to the value of $600.

The theft was discovered when Mr. Thompson returned home after a drive, and was immediately reported to the police, who have several important clues to work on. No clothing was taken, although the house had been thoroughly searched and everything was strewn over the floor. Some of the articles taken had no great intrinsic value, yet were family heirlooms and were highly prized by Mrs. Thompson. Evidently the thieves were novices, as they took some of the plated silverware, leaving the sterling in the same drawer.

Too many love nests are well feathered but empty.

BROTHERHOOD OF MEN IS PLANNED

Methodist Church Members Form Organization at Social Meet

The gathering of thirty-five men at the Central Avenue Methodist church last night resulted in definite steps toward the organization of a men's brotherhood in the church. With this object in view, D. C. Bear was appointed chairman of a committee on organization; H. Loren Mitchell, chairman of the nominating committee, and W. F. Schinner, chairman of a committee to arrange a father-and-son event for the first Monday in January.

Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock by the aid society. Later W. F. Schinner presided as toastmaster. Patriotic songs were sung, including "America," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America, the Beautiful."

New Church to Open

Dr. J. L. Collins announced the opening of the new Methodist church in Montrose for next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The pastor of the new church, Rev. G. L. Durr, was the speaker of the evening, taking for his theme "Men and Evangelism."

The company was entertained with a demonstration of old-fashioned "fiddling" by M. Mitchell of Los Angeles, who played "Turkey in the Straw," "Arkansas Traveler" and other old-time favorites.

Roger Baker, accompanied by Mrs. Baker, also gave violin numbers.

Other speakers were H. Loren Mitchell, who talked on "The Relation of Men to the Boys"; D. C. Bear, "Need of Men in the Sunday School," and Rev. Leo C. Kline, "Formation of a Brotherhood."

PARTY TO HONOR M'GROARTY, PLAN

New Home of Verdugos' Sage Scene of Elaborate Housewarming

Tujunga, the home of John Steven McGroarty, "Scribe of the Green Verdugo Hills," author of the Mission Play and writer of California's history and romance, has become a Mecca for peoples far and near, and an added interest to it is the housewarming of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. McGroarty, to take place from 2 to 5 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, December 8.

The famous cottage home of the McGroartys was destroyed by fire some months ago and the new home, just completed, is said to be more than a house. It is, in fact, an institution, built on lines to accommodate gatherings of the hill folk, and the philosophical conferences that are radiated weekly through Mr. McGroarty's writings.

The Tujunga Woman's club is sharing with Mr. and Mrs. McGroarty in the opening of the new home, and have extended invitations to the housewarming to members of affiliated organizations and friends of Mr. McGroarty everywhere, to make this affair an opportunity for a little journey to the home of California's beloved poet-philosopher.

Included on the committee of club women are Jessie M. Lang, Anna S. Jones, Mary E. Mills, Lillian D. B. Wheeler and Gwendolyn S. Lynch.

Those motoring to Tujunga on Saturday are directed to turn off the foothill highway at El Centro avenue, which will lead them to their destination.

OXY JUNIORS TO PRESENT COMEDY

'Plays and Playwrights' to Be Rendered by Cast of Capable Students

The Occidental college annual junior class production, "Plots and Playwrights," will be presented to the public Thursday and Friday night, December 6 and 7, at the Eagle Rock Grammar school auditorium, at 8:15. It promises to be the best production seen for several years. The cast under the able direction of Arthur Lubin, is working hard to put this play over the top in professional style. Most of the characters have had at least two years' dramatic experience at Occidental, and they have taken part in several plays. Many of the players are members of the Arden Honorary Dramatic society at the Tiger institution.

"Plots and Playwrights' is a production of the Harvard Play Shops, and is a clever, original satirical comedy in a form which has had unparalleled success in the east. The play is new in the west, and will have its preview in this section at the hands of the Oxy junior cast. There are thirteen students in the cast, five girls and eight boys.

LA CRESCENTA

BUILD NEW HOME AT LA CRESCENTA

Owner May Erect Duplex on Adjoining Property for Rent Purposes

A beautiful new home is being erected on West Montrose avenue, on the property owned by Miss Margaret Hauber. The house, which is quite homelike in appearance, with large spacious rooms, will be finished on the outside with stone half way, the upper half of the walls to be stucco. It is probable Mr. Hauber will erect a duplex on the back end of the property for rental purposes. The house stands next to the Community church.

Montrose Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting at the Montrose schoolhouse Friday, December 7, at 8 p. m., to discuss organizing a Community Sing.

Mrs. Hopkins, who is the head of this branch of the Chamber of Commerce, urges residents of the valley to be present whether they sing or not, as a splendid program is being arranged and a good time is promised all who attend.

Plan Church Bazaar

The ladies of the Episcopal Guild of St. Luke of the Mountains will hold a bazaar and tea at Cudddle Doon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas, on Thursday of this week, from 3 to 6 o'clock p. m. The Guild members and officers will hold their regular meeting at 2 promptly, so as to be ready for the bazaar. All gifts to be donated should be at Cuddle Doon by 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, as the officers of the Guild will price every article on Wednesday evening.

The congregation of St. Luke's has been presented with an organ by Mrs. T. Janviere, who also donated the land the church is to be built on.

All interested persons are cordially invited to attend the bazaar and tea.

The Parent-Teachers' association will hold a joint officers' and members' meeting on Thursday of this week at 2 p. m. As they will prepare the children's costumes for the Christmas pageant, every mother is invited to come at 10 a. m., bring her sewing basket and help make the costumes. Lunch will be served the mothers, so they will be free to spend the day sewing.

Mrs. Mary B. Darrow will give a short talk on books for young people and children. She will have some of the new books for children on exhibition to give the parents an idea of the books on sale as Christmas gifts for children from six years on.

Improve Railroad

The railroad gang is busy digging the road bed just west of Los Angeles avenue, preparatory to putting in a switch at this point. The cars are now running out to the end of the car line on Pennsylvania avenue.

The La Crescenta branch of the Los Angeles County free library has the following report to make for the month: Adult books loaned, 250; juvenile, 198; nonfiction and magazines, 155; making a total of 603 books, over 436 of last year's loan at this time.

There were also 29 new borrowers joined the library in the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Card motored up from Los Angeles yesterday for a few minutes. Mr. Card was formerly with the Sparr Heights people.

There will be the regular monthly meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association in the school auditorium on Thursday of this week at 8 p. m. As this is election night for officers for the coming year everyone is urged to be present and vote for their own man. Many important things will be discussed.

JOINS FARM BLOC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Senator Dill, Democrat of Washington, "baby member of the senate" has announced he had fulfilled the campaign pledge which above all others he had promised his constituents he would carry out.

"I have formally joined the farm bloc," he said. "In this way I hope to get through congress remedial legislation for the benefit of American farmers." Dill did not suggest, however, what definite legislation he had in mind for introduction.

INTERFERENCE GONE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Congressional interference with the work of the United States pension bureau has been eliminated through the abolition of the special division organized for the purpose of speeding up pension claims on the recommendation of members of Congress, Secretary of the Interior Work announced today in a report to President Coolidge on the re-organization of the bureau.

LECTURE SERIES FOR REALTY MEN

Announce Plans for Fourteen Addresses; 'Resident Realtors' Scored

The weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty board, held in the Glendale Tavern today noon, was devoted to reports of chairmen of various committees of the organization, chief among which was the report of George D. McDill of the educational committee, outlining plans for a series of lectures to be given at two-week intervals. These lectures will cover every angle of the real estate profession, he said. Fourteen lectures are to be given, the first of which will be on January 9.

Peter Hanson, president of the board, presided at the luncheon.

Others reporting were James W. Pearson, secretary, for the governing committee, and C. D. Thom, for the special sewer committee. Mr. Thom called attention to the mass meeting which has been arranged for December 18, when the sewer project will be discussed from every angle.

Expect to Speak

W. L. Truitt of the program committee reported that A. G. Arnold, industrial expert of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, would be the speaker at the meeting of th board on December 19. No meeting will be held on December 26, the regular meeting day.

Reporting for the signs and license committee, J. E. Barney said that a check of the residential district of Glendale had disclosed that 108 real estate brokers are maintaining offices in their homes. A request has been made of the State Real Estate commission, he said, to make an investigation of brokers with offices in the residential district, before licenses are issued. He also scored the practice of real estate brokers in employing salesmen who do not work out of real estate offices.

The report of the publicity committee was submitted by Dr. Jessie A. Russell.

Next week's meeting will be devoted to hearing the final report of the sewer committee and to a consideration of the report of the multiple listing committee's recommendations for changes in the by-laws and constitution.

TELL RESULTS, IS VISITOR'S ADVICE

Oklahoman Urges Exchange Club to Broadcast Business Chances

"You people of Glendale have the results — and that's what counts," Secretary S. E. Waite of the Shawnee, Okla., Board of Trade told members of the local Exchange club at their weekly luncheon this noon in Jensen's Egyptian Village, 133 North Brand boulevard.

"Business makes cities, money circulating along Main street. A city must be good not only to live in but to make money in. There's Glendale again.

"California is half sold to the world—Southern California. The other half is wondering how you people down here do it.

"Easterners know Southern California has a wonderful climate. You've sold them on that. Now sell them the business opportunities, and I propnesy you will pack this San Fernando valley full of people and industries."

Question Paving

Dr. H. R. Harrower stated he was informed the paving now being laid on Sycamore Canyon road is three-inch surface, despite the fact that a communication was received by the Exchange club from the City Council, some time ago, containing the assurance this road would receive a five-inch surface.

The motion was unanimously carried that, if Dr. Harrower's information is correct, a vote of protest be recorded and a letter indicating this attitude be forwarded to the city engineer and to the City Council.

John B. Chase, district manager of the La Salle Extension university, spoke on "Business Accountancy." A string quartette from the Glendale Union High school entertained the club members and their guests during the progress of the luncheon. R. T. Johnston read a financial report from the Chamber of Commerce.

The club voted to entertain the members of the two Glendale Union High school championship teams at a special dinner on Wednesday, December 19.

Long Beach Outweighs Glendale 18 Pounds Per Man But Who Cares?

HARD FIGHT IS AHEAD OF LADS

Big Crowd of Local People Will Attend Game on Saturday Afternoon

Writing about the advantage in weight which Glendale's competitors after supreme honors on the football field in Southern California have enjoyed, is becoming more or less of a habit. Yet with one possible exception, that of Alhambra, never has the Red and Black been called upon to face such odds as will be the case when they line up against Long Beach at the Coliseum next Saturday in the game to determine which team will play the winner of the Bakersfield-Fresno game for the championship of the state.

The Jackrabbits will outweigh the locals eighteen pounds to the man, which is a real handicap. Both in the line and the backfield the Dynamiters are almost midgets compared to the men from the coast, as a study of the accompanying table will show. They are outweighed twenty-three pounds per man behind the line, sixteen pounds on the forward wall, while from tackle to tackle they are handicapped to the extent of eleven pounds. Their ends outweight the Red and Black twenty-eight pounds.

Hayhurst Deserves Credit

If Coach Hayhurst can lead his squad to victory over the Jackrabbits next Saturday in the face of these odds, he will be hailed as one of the star mentors of the south. Taking a team that appeared to be mediocre at the beginning of the season, he swept through the Central league and vanquished San Bernardino and Santa Monica in post season contests and has fought his way to the semi-finals.

Against a team of no less calibre than Glendale, Long Beach would be a prohibitive favorite in next Saturday's game. But it is known that the scouts who witnessed the game for Coach Schuettner last week took back some very disquieting rumors regarding the ability of the Red and Black line and backfield, which undoubtedly have caused him some sleepless nights.

Light scrimmage and signal drill is being held on the lawn in front of the school building instead of Morse field, in order that the players may become familiar with the turf. Secret practice is out of the question, as the coach is flooded every day with requests from newspapers for permission to take pictures of the squad in action.

Fly-weights Work Hard

While the varsity squad is working out, the class "C" squad, or 110 pounders, which meets the team from Long Beach in their own class with the championship of this part of the state at stake, as a curtain raiser to the main event next Saturday, occupy one part of the field getting ready for their fracas. While they are kept in the shadow owing to the light diffused by their larger schoolmates, they say they are out to trim the Jackrabbit colts, as an incentive to the varsity team to repeat the performance.

First Game at 12:30

The flyweight game will be called promptly at 12:30 and the varsity game at 2:15 o'clock. Students may purchase tickets during the advance sale for 25 cents. All other tickets will be 75 cents. Professor Moyse and A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal, have made a determined stand at all the post season games to keep the price of admission down within the reach of all who might wish to attend.

K. C'S TO TACKLE ZELZA TEAM HERE

Will Stage Sunday Game at White Sox Park on San Fernando Road

While Mike Donlin and his tribe of White Sox are assisting Jack Burns, veteran San Pedro pilot, in dedicating the new ball park in the harbor district metropolis next Sunday, local fans will have another chance to see a San Fernando valley league game when the Glendale K. C.'s tackle the Zelza team at the White Sox home on San Fernando road.

The game which the valley leaguers put up last Sunday was one of the snappiest ever witnessed on a local lot, and they sent Owensmouth home with the short end of the score. Manager Doll and Captain Manusch have scheduled practices for every afternoon this week, and they expect to continue their winning streak at the expense of Zelza next Sunday. It is probable that "Lefty" Bacon will again hurl for the Casey's. He has been going fine in the last two games.

Coach Schuettner of Long Beach: "Glendale has a wonderful team for its weight. They impressed me very much last Saturday against Santa Monica. However, they will find themselves up against a different proposition, when Drury, my back-field ace, hits the line. I firmly believe that Long Beach will be the champions after the game next Saturday."

Coach Hayhurst of Glendale: "Naturally we expect the hardest fight we have had this season. But that's what we like. Several highly touted stars have performed against us, and never got very far. The question of weight means nothing to us. We are used to it now."

WILL PLAY BALL GAMES SATURDAY

Athletic Club Given Use of White Sox Plant for Weekly Pastime

Glendale hereafter will have Saturday afternoon baseball as the result of a deal sanctioned yesterday by the owners of the franchise of the White Sox in the Triple A league, whereby the Glendale Athletic club will use the new plant on San Fernando road as the home field, and refrain from staging counter attractions on Sunday when the Donlin crew is at home.

The first game under the new order of things will be next Saturday, when Manager Viall's crowd takes the field against the Howard Auto team of Los Angeles. Since their reorganization some time ago, the locals have played a very snappy brand of ball, winning their last three starts. Last Sunday they trimmed the Landis Cubs by the score of 18-2. Such local stars as Harris and Acosta are carried on the pay roll, and word has been sent to Frank Kerwin of the Southern California Baseball Managers' association, under whose auspices the games are booked, to send out the best teams obtainable. He states that he has several lined up which will make the Glendale team extend itself.

As there is a certain percentage of the residents of Glendale who are fond of baseball, yet refrain from attending a game on Sunday, this will give them an opportunity every week to witness a good, fast contest. The locals will not go on the road hereafter, but will play every week in Glendale. The games will be called at 2 o'clock.

SEEK NEW COACH TO GUIDE OREGON

'Shy' Huntington Quits Post as Disastrous Football Season Closes

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 5.—The University of Oregon athletic authorities were in the field today for a new football coach, following the resignation of "Shy" Huntington, in charge of varsity football teams for the past six years. Huntington tendered his resignation late yesterday, saying the alumni had failed to support him.

Oregon is expected to make another bid for the services of Hugo Bezdek, Penn State mentor, who coached Oregon teams prior to the war with splendid success. It is possible that, if Bezdek cannot accept the offer next year, he will be asked to come at a later date, and, in the meantime, send an able lieutenant to direct football, such as Stanford university did prior to seucring Glen Warner.

A committee from the alumni will confer with the athletic council at Oregon within the next few days regarding selection of a coach.

leaders had intended doing all along. This brought cries of derision from the Democratic side of the house and Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas, sarcastically inquired if Nelson had agreed to this "under compulsion." This brought gales of laughter from both sides.

WILSON MIDGETS WIN SOCCER CUP

Coveted Trophy's Possession Decided by Victory Over Glendale Ave.

The Wilson avenue midget soccer team scored a victory over their adversaries at Glendale avenue yesterday when they won the final game in the interschool series by a score of 3 to 0, and cinched the school trophy the athletic cup, for Wilson school for this season.

Goals were kicked by Wendell Sherman and Charles Temple, the third goal is credited jointly to Waldo Forrester and Charles Heustis. Edgar Blue is credited with star playing that prevented a score by Glendale avenue at a critical period in the game. Curtis Doll has starred for Glendale avenue through the series. The lineups were:

Wilson Avenue

Glendale Avenue

Subs—Obed Lucas, Kermit Swanson.

Edgar Wohlbach of Glendale High school refereed.

J. G. Bailie of Glendale avenue and M. E. Dunn of Wilson avenue, coached.

The senior championship went to Glendale avenue, the team winning the fifth game, with a score of 1 to 0 ,after the teams had played four games with tie scores. Wilson won the junior championship with two games out of three. The victory by the midgets decides the ownership of the coveted cup.

DISBAND DURANT AUTO RACE TEAM

Famed Speed Kings Will Run Cars Under Own Names in Future Events

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Cliff Durant, millionaire motor magnate and automobile racing driver, has disbanded his famous auto race team bearing his name and the make of his cars.

In disbanding the team, which consisted of Jimmy Murphy, Eddie Hearne, Harry Hartz, Ira Vail and Fred Comer, Durant declared he was doing it for the best interests of automobile racing and, incidentally, will give the drivers who have driven under his banner the opportunity to enter and own the car they drive in races hereafter.

Members of the Durant team have rolled up an enviable score in the two years the team was in existence, as in nearly every race they have been entered they took one of two places in the money.

At New York—Ad Stone, Philadelphia, got the decision over Mike Burke, New York, twelve rounds. Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo won decision over Sammy Vogel, New York, twelve rounds.

GAME NO PLACE FOR SEMI-INVALID

Star of Long Beach Squad May Be In Danger; Hot Sporting Comment

The latest report from Long Beach is that Drury, star of the Jackrabbit back-field, had three ribs broken in the Sweetwater game on Thanksgiving and would not be able to start against Glendale next Saturday.

After watching the Red and Black rip the Santa Monica defence to pieces last week, the Long Beach scouts probably decided that it would be no place for a semi-invalid, to say the least.

Williams' Big Job

Harry Williams, president of the Coast League, or at least five-eights of it, before departing for Chicago, issued a statement, in which he said that he was going to offer the ball player every opportunity for advancement in his profession, whether the club owners went back to the draft system or struck to the purchase plan.

Since the days of "Pop" Anson authorities have been striving to arrive at some equitable solution of this problem, in order to protect the interests of the small league magnate, as well as the ball player concerned.

Harry Williams' big job right now is to restore harmony in the Coast league. With the eight club owners on friendly terms, this draft question, which has threatened to disrupt organized baseball for the past two years, would take care of itself as far as the Pacific coast is concerned.

May See His Error

If William H. McCarthy, of San Francisco carries the Pacific Coast league fight to the meeting at Chicago, it is our opinion that he will lose.

His refusal to hand over the funds in the league's treasury was without precedent. We have an idea that after a short talk with Judge Landis, he may see the error of his ways.

McCarthy is a wise old war horse, but we believe Williams has got the pole away from him this time.

Merrill Some Tackler

Merrill, the colored tackle, was the only man on the Santa Monica squad that even looked, let alone acted, like a football player. His work stood out alone in an otherwise dreadful exhibition.

To quote a city paper: "The only way we knew they were football players was by the padded pants and helmets."

Want Their Chance

Local friends of "Slim" Harris, Acosta and other young diamond stars are urging Mike Donlin to give them a chance to perform in a White Sox uniform.

The average fan would rather see a coming youngster than a fading big leaguer. Following the defeat by Wilmington last Sunday, Glendale is tied with Shell Oil for second place, although fifth in the standing. Sawtelle, San Pedro and Wilmington are tied for first place with 3 won and 1 lost.

As there are only fourteen games in the schedule, Glendale must find it's stride if they are to lead the procession when the schedule is finished. Composed almost entirely of professional ball players, the White on paper, are the class of the league, yet they have bowed to Shell Oil and Wilmington.

They still have the games to play and have time to give Glendale a pennant, if the hitting strength of the team can be bolstered by the addition of one or two good stickers.

Frank Kerwin and Grant Leischner have given Glendale a great ball park, and we want a great ball team. We are sure that there are several youngsters playing on the lots here who would be tickled to get a chance to work out with the White Sox, and they should be invited to come down to the park and "show their stuff."

System Seems Bad

Personally, we do not believe that the system in vogue in the Pacific Coast league of trading stars to the majors for players, who either need seasoning, or else have served their days in the "big show" and lately found that the pace is too hot for them, will work to the advantage of the Williams' organization.

There is a certain glamor about the big leaguer when he first appears. You hear confidential whispers, "That is so and so, of the Cubs," and there is always the bug in the stands who must shout out, "Hello, Bob," although the chances are that he never laid eyes on the Yankee star until that very day.

But unless he can deliver the goods consistently, the fans are not long until they get weary of hearing what he has done. They want him to do it now.

And with the privilege of draft hanging over the youngster who is farmed out, a manager is continually in a quandary as to how long he will have his team intact. Many a star has not shown up well in his first attempt to break into the big league, but after more seasoning, has set the circuit on fire. To develop these youngsters and then lose them, is not sweet to any manager, yet this is what happens with the rookies traded, or that will be traded, if the present plan is followed out.

Pacific Coast league clubs would every player on the rosters of the

In a few years' time practically be subject to the draft of the majors.

Football Still Stars

Football is dying a very lingering death, as far as Glendale is concerned, and the basketball stars are forced to remain out of the spot light until the issue of Saturday is settled, at least. Meanwhile several of the city league teams are practicing nightly at the high school gym, with an occasional league game to relieve the monotony.

Leads Champs

Captain Ronny West of the Dynamiters, one of the hardest hitting backs in the Central league. He was out of the game for about a month due to injuries, but got into the fracas with Santa Monica last Saturday for a short time.

Radio Gas Bowlers Beat Harold Lloyds

The Radio Gas team won three games from the Harold Lloyds, leaders of the major league, in last night's game at the Recreation Center. In the special match between Roder, Rehm and Neise, against Hershey, Taylor and Gregg, the Glendale boys won. The score:

Tilden Incident Is Closed, Says Hackett

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—"The incident is closed," was the only comment Harold H. Hackett, member of the Davis cup committee, would make on the threat of William H. Tilden, III, world's leading tennis player, to retire from Davis cup play.

The threat was made following Hackett's criticism of Tiden's double play in the last chp series, the champion replying by charging the committee with star chamber tactics in the selection of its teams.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Albany—Jack Palmer, Philadelphia, won judge's decision over Rocky Smith, New York, twelve rounds.

At Boston—Abe Friedman, bantamweight champion of New England, defeated Tommy Mee of South Boston, ten rounds.

At Detroit—Kid Barbarian, Detroit, beat Johnny Dundee in ten rounds.

NAVY BOXERS DO STUFF FOR FANS

Verhouse, in Main Event, Wins Decision of Lankershim Exhibition

The sailors from San Pedro performed last night for the Glendale Athletic club before only a small-sized crowd, but the fans who attended were well rewarded for their time and money.

Sailor Verhouse of the U. S. S. Mississippi, in the main event, lived up to his advance reputation and received the decision over Roy Edwards of Lankershim at the end of the four rounds. Verhouse is a very cool boxer but does not pack much of a punch. He was able to keep Edwards away from him during the fight, with the exception of a straight left jab which he used to advantage. The sailor landed several times, but his blows lacked any considerable amount of steam.

Packey Flynn and Sailor Troop furnished a good scrap, the sailor taking the count in the third. Packey was too much for the San Pedro boy, and led all the way.

Carr Goes on Winning

Jack Carr, local boy, continued his string of knock-outs when he put Al Hughes of Pasadena away in the first round. This is the second time in succession in the Glendale ring he has disposed of his opponent in the opening stanza. For a youngster Carr carries a good punch.

Spec Johnson received the decision over Frankie Grant in rather a tame affair.

We almost forgot the semi-windup. Jack Thompson, also a sailor, received the decision when Eddie Matthews quit in the second round. As a boxer Matthews is a fine comedian. He was unable to bluff the sailor with his ferocious countenance, and that is all he had to do it with. Thompson had the fight all the way.

ARBITRATION TO NAME PRESIDENT

Coast League Magnates to Effect Settlement of Squabble

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Pacific Coast league magnates are moving on Chicago for the "crooc ial" series in their mid-winter presidential pennant race.

"President No. 1,"—William H. McCarthy, with his legal adviser, Harry Stafford, is already in the east preparing to contest the election of Harry Williams—"President No. 2," while Williams is en route east to claim the office which he and his five supporters aver is rightfully his.

Both sides are claiming a victory, but the hint was out that whatever way the board of arbitration rules in the squabble will end the matter at least for this season.

McCarthy is expected to make an effort to get William Wrigley owner of the Chicago Cubs, before the arbitration board to question him, regarding the deal whereby the Seattle club was purchased. McCarthy charged Wrigley with "syndicate baseball" claiming that in addition to owning the Los Angeles club, he financed the purchase of the Seattle club.

The Seattle club has not been recognized by McCarthy as having a vote since the "syndicate" charge was hurled and on this ground he contests the election of Williams by the "big five."

Facts and Figures About Proposed Sewer System For Glendale Told at Meeting

form metropolitan sewer districts, as is done in Boston and other eastern cities, was stressed by Mr. Smith, who pointed out that Fullerton, Anaheim and a number of surrounding communities have already formed such a district, with Santa Ana as their consolidation point, while Linwood, Watts and communities in that neighborhood are forming such a district at the present time.

The Pacific ocean is the one and only natural sewage outlet for Southern California, Mr. Smith told his audience. All other arrangements were makeshifts, he said, and would in the end prove costly, insufficient and unhygienic.

Future Growth of City Is Unlimited

Particularly the impossibility of predicting the future growth of such centers as Glendale was stressed by the speaker, it being pointed out that three years ago it was believed by experts that the city would attain a population of 40,000 by 1940.

It was for this reason, he said, that the present plan calls for a system, connecting with the Los Angeles outfall, of such capacity as to care for a population of 1,000,000 in Glendale and surrounding communities, while allowance is made for 20 per cent in excess of an ultimate Glendale population of 240,000.

The election called for January 8 is to authorize the $1,600,000 sewer bond election, Mr. Smith stated. This sum will build the entire sewer system, with intercepting mains sufficient to serve every section of the city, and with a main trunk line running from the northwest boundary of Glendale to the connection point with the Los Angeles outfall sewer, near the Santa Fe station, Los Angeles.

Line to Take Over Year in Building

This trunk line will be approximately ten miles long, he said, and will require from twelve to fifteen months to construct, which will be approximately the time required to build the intercepting mains and laterals within the heart of the city of Glendale—so that in the anticipated event that the election carries with an overwhelming majority, the system should be in complete operation by June 1, 1925.

This proposed issue of $1,600,000 in bonds will be the only bond issue in connection with the sewer, Mr. Smith stated. It will cover the construction of the entire system, with the exception of the laterals, which will be constructed under the assessment district plan, at a nominal cost.

With a flow provided of sixty gallons per capita per day, on a basis of 1,000,000 population ultimately utilizing this system, it is estimated by Mr. Smith that the sewage of Glendale and all surrounding communities will by this arrangement be taken care of for all time to come.

Northwest Section to Receive Service

At the conclusion of Mr. Smith's remarks, Mrs. M. B. Buckman, a member of the executive committee of the Glendale Foothill Improvement Association, rose and stated that she was glad it had been made clear that the proposed bond issue provided for carrying the sewer from Aviation drive north along San Fernando road to the Burbank city line, as many residents of the northwest section of Glendale had been laboring under the impression they were to have no sewer.

Councilman Davis, the last speaker, read the contract between Glendale and Los Angeles paragraph by paragraph, explaining every point and showing its absolute fairness. He then practically laid down the keynote of the forthcoming election as "Sewer Bonds or Annexation," declaring that this city must have a modern, adequate to-the-ocean sewer system in order to grow and prosper as it is now in a position to do.

Meeting the arguments of the annexationists, Councilman Davis produced copies of the official minutes of the Los Angeles city council, as taken at the time in 1922 when the annexation committee from this city presented their plea to the city fathers.

What Minutes of L. A. Council Show

These minutes show conclusively, in black and white and beyond any argument, that in the event of annexation, Glendale would have to build its own system of intercepting mains and laterals, and that the earliest sewer service that could be promised was one year from date of annexation, in the business district, while no date could be set when the rest of Glendale might be connected up with the Los Angeles system.

These minutes showed, furthermore, that Glendale would have to float a local bond district, even in the event of annexation, in order to get a sewer system even in the business district. They showed many other disadvantageous features of the Los Angeles annexation offer, that served to open the eyes of many annexationists and convert them to the proposed bond issue.

Evidence of Figures Is Important

But most convincing of all was a set of carefully checked figures presented by Councilman Davis, showing that in the event of annexation, the people of Glendale would assume their just proportion of 3.36 per cent of $71,155,500 in taxpaying bonds, or $2,148,896, which is more than the total cost of the proposed sewer system, or $35.81 per capita; and that in addition they would assume $22,000,000 of tax-exempt bonds, nevertheless a liability, or an additional $11.07 per head; making a total of $46.88 per head which the people of Glendale would immediately assume under annexation, while the total per capita cost of building the proposed $1,600,000 sewer system is only $26.67 per head.

These figures proved to be compelling, and upon conclusion of Councilman Davis' remarks many who had been more or less annexationist in tendency saw that by going in with Los Angeles they would be shouldering a heavy debt, with a great deal higher tax rate than at present, and without the very sewer system they are certain to get under the present plan.

Judging from the numbers of questions asked and from the satisfaction expressed over the clear replies, it can be safely stated that when the Glendale people understand the sewer matter in its various angles, they become heartily in favor of it. On the night of December 18, the occasion of the public mass meeting called to explain the sewer project to all Glendale, it is urged by Mayor Robinson and Councilman Davis that every resident of the city who does not thoroughly understand every angle of this great forward-looking project be present as a civic duty and obtain the enlightenment that will make his vote a sewer bond vote.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Cameo Kirby" was a great stage success, therefore it is logical that the picture version showing at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today should be a great film. William Fox made the picture, a John Ford production from the Booth-Tarkington-Harry Leon Wilson play.

The tsory of "Cameo Kirby," with its romance, its color and its gripping plot, is compelling. John Gilbert, remembered so happily as the Count of Monte Cristo, plays the devil-may-care Mississippi river gambler. He is aided by a cast including Gertrude Olmsted, Jean Arthur and Alan Hale.

Many in the audiences that for the past three days have viewed this tremendous drama of the old south have declared it superior to the stage play, while all have been moved by the power of the drama and the piognancy of the delicate love sequence pervading it.

Rootstocks of the coptis, a plant native of Northern Europe, Siberia, Iceland and North America, contain a yellow dye.

THE GATEWAY

Millions of Douglas Fairbanks admirers have been waiting to receive "Stephen Steps Out," the first picture featuring his son, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Wherever the picture has been shown, they have burst into enthusiastic tribute over it, lavish in praise of the capable way young Doug follows in his dad's footsteps—and the world knows that the great Fairbanks strides the paths of fame in seven-league boots.

In "Stephen Steps Out" Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is at once established as one of the leading juvenile screen stars. Those who remember how such stars as Charles Ray and Douglas MacLean were born predict for this young man a career not less brilliant than any of theirs. He is, moreover, by inheritance, early association and training a born actor—and is certain to win wide favor with his initial screen offering.

BEREAVED WIDOW GREETS NEPHEW

Mrs. Johanna Edwards Welcomes Sister's Son Who Will Reside Here

It was with smiles of happiness that Mrs. Johanna Edwards of 369 West California avenue, mother of Clarence Edwards, who lost his life October 13th in the hill fire, came into The Glendale Evening News office this morning, to say that her nephew, Rudolph Karstadt, has arrived from New York to make his home with her.

Mr. Karstadt is one of the five sons of Mrs. Edwards' sister, Mrs. Regina Karstadt of New York, and upon hearing of Mrs. Edwards' loss he and his mother decided that he should come to California to make his home in Glendale and care for his aunt.

He is an expert on hardwood floors and tiling and has already secured a fine position with a Los Angeles firm.

"It seems that a great burden has been lifted off my heart," said Mrs. Edwards. "I will always miss my good son, but now the empty chair is filled by a fine boy, who is very kind to me."

Mrs. Edwards is expecting her sister to visit Glendale in the spring.

ARREST MAN ON LARCENY CHARGE

F. M. Butterfield Held Here for Wisconsin Police; Waives Extradition

A chase that dates back to 1922 and has extended over a great portion of the western country was ended yesterday in Glendale when Captain Loving, Lieutenant Royle and Detective Sergeant Blake arrested F. M. Butterfield, 121 West Maple street, on advices received from Chief of Police J. G. Laubenheimer of Milwaukee, Wis.

According to the information furnished the local officers, Butterfield is charged with purchasing a car from the Jesse A. Smith company of the Wisconsin city, and left the country, still owing $133 on his contract. He is technically charged with larceny as bailee.

Ask Local Aid

Some time ago the local police were asked to assist in locating Butterfield, as the Milwaukee authorities stated they understood he was in this part of the country. A clever bit of detective work on the part of the Glendale department resulted in the arrest yesterday.

Butterfield is held awaiting information from the Chief of Police of Milwaukee. He has waived extradition, and is trying to fix the matter up to avoid prosecution, the police say.

yards in the orange belt of southern California. Neb. He is a native of Lexington, Neb. He is a Shriner, an Elk and a member of other civic and fraternal organizations.

The board members whose terms did not expire with the close of the fiscal year and who form the "old guard" in the new directorate, are Mr. Hewitt, P. J. Hayselden, George H. Bentley, A. R. Eastman, R. F. Kitterman and Earl C. Pendroy.

The new board members are D. H. Smith, C. W. Ingledue, George B. Karr, Harry G. MacBain, Lyman P. Clark and Fred Deal.

Adjournment was taken following organization of the new board, which then went into session to organize for its work during the ensuing year.

For City and Chamber

Addressing the board members upon assuming the office of president, Mr. Hewitt told them that "it is up to you whether I make good or not." Continuing, he said:

"I hope that my work will meet with your approbation during my term of office. I intend to do the best I can for the board and for the city.

"We have been associated together for the last twelve months, and it has been one of the real pleasures of my life. We do not make friends as we did in our younger days, but during this period I have really made friends. It is a pleasure to have known you men as I have known you, and those who are leaving this board as well. I know we will be friends for life.

"The new directors are to be congratulated upon being selected from among their fellowmen as directors of this organization. It is a privilege and an honor. I know you will all 'hit the ball' and give the best that is in you. You have got your hands full. The City Council has its hands full, and we are the right-hand bower of the Council."

Work Accomplished

Concluding his remarks with a review of work accomplished by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce during the last year, Mr. Hewitt pointed to the present satisfactory status of the sewer project, the work of the highway committee, whose work, he said, "is a real job;" the extension of the Foothill boulevard, plans for constructing a bridge over the Los Angeles river; efforts of the Chamber in having the City Council create a city planning commission, obtaining additional fire-fighting equipment, street signs, and numerous other improvements

The annual report of the secretary was read by Secretary E. F. Sanders, who gave in detail a resume of the Chamber's work during the past twelve months. He pointed out that 450 new members had been added to the organization, that many new industries have been brought to Glendale through the Chamber's efforts, its work in community service and numerous other accomplishments of a civic and commercial nature.

Thank Evening News

A vote of thanks was extended to The Glendale Evening News for its generosity in giving publicity to the activities of the Chamber during the past year.

The board approved the auditor's report, showing the present condition of the books of the Chamber.

A resolution was adopted in which President Hewitt and Vice-Presidents Smith and Karr were named a committee to appoint a committee of committees for the ensuing year.

PUPILS' LEAGUES WILL GIVE GIFTS

Collect Toys, Clothes, Food For Needy Families at Christmas Time

Following out the plan announced some time ago, the Boys' and Girls' Leagues of the high school are busily engaged in collecting gifts of toys, clothes and non-perishable foods which will be distributed to the needy families of Glendale Christmas.

Catherine Baird, chairman of the philanthropic committee of the Girls' League, has sent letters to the principals of all the grammar schools in the city asking for the names of all the poor families in their respective districts. The league's plan is to make up baskets of toys, clothing and food which will be distributed to these families just before Christmas.

In order to avoid duplication of the families provided for by other units taking part of this work in charge, it is essential that the names of all those needing assistance be in the hands of the high school committee before December 8, so that an investigation can be made.

Co-operation Asked

It is not necessary that any citizen wait until asked for assistance by the high school students. If you know of any needy family or have anything in the line of toys, clothing or food which would be proper in a Christmas basket just phone Glendale 120, and the name of the family will be registered or the gift called for. Parties taking their gifts to the high school in person, are asked to leave them at the office of the girls' gymnasium.

This is a worthy project which deserves the hearty co-operation of every citizen of this city, and it bespeaks well for the spirit being fostered at the high school that the students willingly give of their time and money to further this deserving cause.

Station Officer At Dangerous Crossing

To the great satisfaction of the residents of the southern section of the city whose children were obliged to cross San Fernando road to reach the Cerritos avenue school, a traffic officer has been stationed at the intersection of Brand boulevard and San Fernando road.

The recent accident to the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Goldsborough, who were knocked down by an auto at this dangerous crossing, emphasized the necessity of having an officer at this point.

For some time an officer has been stationed at Cerritos avenue to assist the smaller children to reach the school.

Germans Still Refuse to Admit Defeat In World War, Declares W. B. Kirk

Regret that the allied armies did not complete the victory of the World War by completely subduing Germany is expressed by W. B. Kirk in his travel letter today, written in Vienna. That Germany waged a war of defense from the beginning and that she was never defeated is firmly fixed in the German mind, according to Mr. Kirk. This, he claims, is the cause of the attitude of the German people toward the payment of indemnity.

W. B. KIRK

He writes: "Vienna, November 6, 1923. We arrived here yesterday afternoon, having broken the long, 11-hour journey by stopping over night in Prague. But of this I will tell you in due course.

"I have just read in the Chicago Tribune of the first, a statement by Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton, which was probably published in the Los Angeles Times, since it has the Tribune news service. Dr. Hibben comes nearer to stating the truth about the German situation, it seems to me, than any statement I have seen. I think he probably underestimates the amount of deprivation and suffering among certain classes, because it is impossible for wage increases to even approximate the rapid fall of the mark.

Money Somewhere, Claim

"In other respects both his premises and conclusions are about correct, I think. Of course I wasn't in Germany in 1912 but, as I have already stated, the people we saw everywhere seem to be little worried about conditions, wear good clothes and feel that everything will work out all right. My statements to you that they are giving nothing away, prices for everything being on a 'dollar' basis fully as high as they are in France, show that the people have a storehouse of money somewhere, as there are very few tourists in the country.

"The two ideas, that 'Germany from the beginning waged a war of defense' and that she 'was never defeated,' I think are firmly fixed in the German mind and are the cause of the attitude of the people toward the payment of indemnity. It is a pity that the allied armies did not complete the victory at any cost, for it would probably have saved the world a much greater cost. It is clear to anybody who visits Germany that she is far from being a bankrupt nation. I believe she can pay any amount of indemnity imposed.

"The question is, whether it is wise to compel her to do so. Nobody outside of Germany or of German prejudice doubts the justness of France's demands, but looking to the future, is it wise to enforce them? Any coalition which Germany might make, and which would bring on another world war, would cost the nations an amount of money alone which would make the present demand 'look like thirty cents.'

"England, alone, seems to see this and is trying to effect a settlement of the matter. Shouldn't nations as well individuals be forgiving? The hatred that is being increased in German hearts bodes no good.

Meet Ex-Angeleno

"On our trip to Potsdam we met a little woman who used to live in Los Angeles, and who is now living temporarily in Heidelberg, where her husband, a teacher, is completing a two year course at the university. She told us that their little boy of five is starting to school in Heidelberg, but that they are worried over the situation and are anxious to get away because of the growing hatred of the Germans against the French.

"A very important part of the curriculum is military training with the thought uppermost that they are to fight the French. And the boys are as eager to get into war as are the instructors.

"There is plenty to eat in Germany, if you have the money. We were never deprived of meat, butter, milk or eggs, but unquestionably many people eat little of them. In Berlin, just out of curiosity, I inquired the price of butter in two butter stores with the sign in large letters on the windows, 'Butter Handling,' and in each place was told that they had no butter. They were selling cheese and such stuff. When we left Dresden we were paying 25 milliarden (about eight cents) for an individual butter, such as you pay only two cents for in cafeterias.

"The money condition growing constantly from bad to worse, we decided not to prolong our stay in Berlin or in Germany, so came on to Dresden Friday afternoon. Just before we left I was able to get 200 milliarden to the dollar, although the official rate was still only 130. This made our taxi to the station and fare to Dresden reasonably low, although the railroads are pushing up the fares each day.

Secure Good Rooms

"The day was not rainy but was foggy, cold and gloomy. We had met a young American from Cincinnati, traveling in Germany, who has headquarters in Dresden, so, at his request, I had wired him and he had secured for us two rooms at the Union hotel, where we were very well treated. But I will have to leave Dresden till my next letter.

"I believe that the one reason why we have gotten along so well in our travels, and have enjoyed them so much, is that we have gone into each country with an

The Truth About Sewer Bond Issue

THE NEED OF A SEWER SYSTEM

Glendale is the largest city in the country without a sanitary sewer system. That this condition exists has only been possible from the fact that the major portion of the city is located on a loose, porous sand and gravel formation with the ground water level from forty to fifty feet below the surface, making possible the disposal of sewage by cesspools. Glendale is also the fastest growing city in the world and as the growth extends to the hill section where the soil is of a more compact nature—as a clay or shale formation, the method of cesspool disposal is practically impossible. Also, due to this growth, the density of population increases, hence a larger volume of sewage wastes and the absorption power of the soil is overtaxed. Such a condition now exists for the small system of sewers now serving the business district. The original battery of cesspools receiving the sewage from this district has been overloaded and new ones have been added, extended to a depth of forty feet, only to provide temporary relief for a week or two. The situation is now critical and becoming worse as new larger buildings are being constructed that will increase the sewage flow. As the density of population increases in other sections of the city by the construction of houses on every lot and with the construction of apartment houses, bungalow courts, schools, hospitals, etc., this same condition will exist.

Another dangerous condition that will arise from the continued use of cesspools should be borne in mind. The constant discharge of sewage waste into the loose porous soil overlying the water stratum will eventually carry the pollution into the underground water table from which the City of Glendale derives its water supply. The city wells are now fairly well isolated from this danger, but, with the subdividing of the territory near the waterworks location, this danger will become more imminent.

The following paragraph is quoted from an article by R. F. Goudey, assistant engineer, State Board of Health, and appeared in the weekly bulletin of the California State Board of Health, October 27, 1923:

"The travel of pollution underground from cesspools depends on a great many factors. In fine sandy soils pollution might travel but a few feet, but where the material is of gravel the pollution may travel over one thousand feet. To be safe the natural purification agencies of the soil should not be overburdened and cesspools should never be located where there will be any possibility of pollution."

With the acute conditions already existing, and with the rapid growth of the city which will very soon greatly aggravate these conditions, the need of a sewer system to not only relieve the present conditions, but to prevent further complications, is self-evident.

Trip Through Holy Land Is Graphically Told In Lecture to Club Women

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

"If you want to be up to date, and beyond date, study your Bible," was the inspiring bit of advice given yesterday morning to over eighty-five Tuesday Afternoon club members and friends gathered in the palm room of the clubhouse to hear the second lecture to the Bible section by Miss Winifred Rouzee, Bible student, traveler, lecturer and, most of all, leader.

Tuesday Afternoon clubwomen looked forward for many weeks to Miss Rouzee's return from her trip around the world, and their anticipation of the inspiration and educational value of her lecture series to the club was well founded, as seen in the rapid growth, attendance and interest in the Bible section, under the curatorship of Mrs. Charles H. Temple.

Yesterday Miss Rouzee gave the second lecture in the series to the Bible section. These first two lectures have been eloquent accounts of her travels through the Holy Land, to provide a colorful preface leading up to the Bible study course she has planned.

Through Holy Land

In her first lecture she took her listeners on her journeyings as far as Bethel, and yesterday morning began, as she voiced it, "One Hour Out of Jerusalem."

The picture she gave as introduction to her lecture was of a country similar to southern California. Low, rolling hills, with little verdure and very few trees, composed the landscape as she and her party motored from Jerusalem towards Bethel.

She told of passing the Dead Sea, which is so named, she said, "because it never gives out except as the sun robs it of its moisture. The waters are dead, and it is something to turn from."

Journeying on through the barren hills of Judea on a good Roman road, she told of meeting picturesque camel trains, passing other travelers with the simple greeting of "Salaam."

Bethel she pictured as a group of little buildings, resembling a Mexican town, except for many domes. An experience here was visiting Jacob's Well.

"When you come to Palestine from the Orient or Egypt, you accept antiquity without a gasp," said Miss Rouzee, in expressing the belief that this well was, in truth, the original one. She told of its construction and of the priest from the Greek Catholic church nearby letting down candles into the well, so that the tourists might see the clear, bubbling waters. "They were, indeed, the real, living waters Christ spoke about," she concluded.

Going on, an interesting sight of oxen treading grain in a vast grain field met the traveler's eye. The next visit was to the old home city of the Samaritans and to the old Samaritan synagogue, where is kept a copy of the Pentateuch.

In this same city Miss Rouzee's party was privileged to visit a potter's cave shop, built in the hillside, like the majority of the stores and shops in the city.

The journey led on to the site of old Samaria, now in ruins, and then to the northern border of Samaria, to the plain where the battle of Megiddo took place.

Stops at Nazareth

Nazareth was the next place visited, and Miss Rouzee described it as situated on the heights, with a majestic view of the plain below. It commands unexcelled views of the site of the "Tranfiguration' and the "Crags of Precipitation." In the center of the city is the interesting landmark, "The Virgin's Well."

From Nazareth a descent was

TWO WEEKS LEFT IN COMPETITION

Second Phase of Campaign To End Saturday; Rivals Stage Close Race

By J. A. MALCOLM
Salesmanship Club Manager

The big salesmanship campaign will close two weeks from tomorrow.

Two more weeks to win or lose prizes worth thousands of dollars. Two more weeks in which to put forth the effort that will make you a big winner of prizes that would ordinarily take years to secure. Two more all important weeks that will mean much or little to you, according to the effort that you put forth and the results that you are able to obtain in the form of subscriptions.

Prizes Within Reach

With but two weeks remaining you should make up your mind that you are not going to let any one discourage you in any way, for the big prizes are right within your grasp to take as your own or to let them slip away to some others who reach out a little further than you. It is the workers who do the best work this week who will stand the best chance of winning the big prizes. Sluggards have no chance to win one of the big prizes in this race. It takes work, but the prizes are well worth any effort that you may have to use to win any one of them. It is a known fact that several of the club members do not realize how close they are to one of the grand prizes right now and if the campaign were to close tonight instead of December 20 there would be some surprises among those interested.

If you have done well in the race up to this time, you can rest assured that you are in line for something good and a great deal depends upon what you do between now and the end of the campaign as to which one of the many fine prizes you will receive.

This is the last week that the subscriptions will be accepted by

TODAY—L. A. Bucks Studio Slump; But Jobs Not Too Plentiful.

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE,
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Despite the recent closing of the Famous Players-Lasky studio here, which came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, many Hollywood film producers, directors and players are going ahead with plans for continued work and are trying to survive the "slack" season.

Each year during the Winter season the Hollywood studios "slow down" in their production program, but never before has it been so marked as to cause the closing of such a studio as the Lasky organization, one of the biggest in the business.

However, all the studios are not all gloom, and many of them are going ahead with programs almost normal.

At the United Studios building plans for several new structures are under way.

From M. C. Levee, president of the United Studios, comes word that the improvement program will continue with even greater activity.

Mack Sennett, one of the important independent producers, recently issued a statement declaring that instead of harboring any plans for retrenchment he expects to spend more. Also, he said, he expects to revive his famous bathing beauty girls.

Maurice Tourneur, another independent producer, had this to say: "I was never so active in my life. Have you started another production and expect to be engaged on this film for several months. Following this production there will be others. I do not anticipate any suspension in operations."

Richard Walton Tully, another producer, said: "We have just concluded plans for what will prove my most active producing season since I became associated with the screen. It looks like an active season ahead of me."

Joseph M. Schenck, producer of films featuring Norma and Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton, voiced there would be no shut down in production for his three stars. Norma Talmadge has just started production of a new film and the first work in films starring Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton will soon be started, it was stated.

Among the players, who are supposed to be hard hit by the "slump" in production, there are many who apparently do not feel disposed to spread gloom over the outlook.

Conway Tearle, one of the best-known leading men, said: "From all indications the outlook to me personally is very active. At present I have two New York engagements under consideration. As soon as my present contract has been fulfilled I expect to take up other engagements now pending."

Lloyd Hughes, another actor, declared he was working at present and had bookings for at least three months to come.

Among others whose services in films are either engaged or who have new contracts under consideration that will keep them active during the prescribed suspension period are Blanche Sweet, Tully Marshall, James Kirkwood and many others.

It is generally admitted by those in "the know" that many of the bigger studios here have many unreleased pictures; pictures that are "on the shelves," and that in addition to these each of them has at least two and in many cases three "big" films that have just been released for showing or have not yet been released.

When the Lasky Corporation tacked up the "closed" sign across the studio front gate approximately 2,000 persons, including workers in all branches of the film industry, found themselves out of work. And, because the other studios are "filled," they find it difficult to get work.

WILHELMINA LAST DUTCH QUEEN?

Ruler Favors Changing Holland Government

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and Princess Juliana

THE HAGUE, Dec. 5.—Wilhelmina, last queen of the Netherlands. Thus do many Dutch politicians and statesmen of Europe think of the charming middle-aged woman who is one of the few sovereigns left in chaotic Europe.

The glory that was the Dutch republic's may be once more.

Wilhelmina herself is known to have devoted considerable thought to the matter. To a recent visitor she said:

"I think that Holland ought to adopt something like the Constitution of the United States. I admire the American government for its ability to change every few years. I have purposely studied the constitutions of all the great governments of the world and I admire the American form of government very much. But I consider that of England best."

Only recently she observed the silver jubilee of her reign and was given a tremendous ovation by her people. While sentiment in favor of a republic after the queen's death is strong, many thinking Hollanders believe a sovereign necessary to the preservation of the extensive Dutch colonial empire.

The heir to the throne, Princess Juliana, is not being brought up with any royal ideas. When Juliana reported to her mother that she was being teased about what she would do when she became queen, a visitor reports that Wilhelmina told the princess:

"Next time they tease you, say this: 'I do not know, I do not think I ever will be queen. My mother says to tell you this, and that I must study as hard as you do and learn all that I can learn and be prepared to make my own living if I must'."

"HONOR MAIN ISSUE IN RUHR," SAYS SIR EDWARD GRIGG

The serious differences which have risen between England and France on the ccoupation of the Ruhr, which at this moment threaten to sever the Entente, and the conditions under which the British believe the problem could be effectually settled, were surveyed recently at length in an interview by Sir Edward Grigg, British member of Parliament for Oldham, Lancashire, former military secretary to the Prince of Wales and for years personal secretary to Lloyd George when Prime Minister.

Sir Edward Grigg

Sir Edward, arrived in the U. S. a short time ago. He considers that the Ruhr question involves only a matter of honor between France and Germany; the former because her honor is involved in maintaining the occupation, the latter because it is a question of principle for her to maintain passive resistance.

The Greatest Difficulty

Summing up the reparations and Ruhr problems Sir Edward declared: "The greatest difficulty in the situation, which has given rise to very widespread pessimism is that French honor is involved in the maintenance of occupation until Germany surrenders and that German honor appears to be involved equally in maintaining passive resistance until the French make some conciliatory move. This is the dead point in the situation and British energies must be directed to making wheels go round again without loss of honor to either their French or Belgian allies. The most foolish and cardinal blunder the Germans ever made was the signing of the Treaty of Rapallo at the Genoa conference. When the two 'outlaw' nations, Germany and Russia, joined hands the Germans lost any British sympathy they might ever have had."

As regards the reparation problem as a whole he blames the French Government for making it impossible for America to maintain a representative in the Reparations Commission. The absence of an American member, he said, profoundly upset the balance of the commission. He hopes to see an American representative, official or unofficial, in the new Reparations Commission, which he hopes the Committee of International Financiers will set up.

"Great Britain has always profoundly regretted that the United States was not an active participating member of the Reparation Commission, as laid down in the Treaty of Versailles. The absence of the American represenative profoundly upset the balance of the commission, because the commission was left with nothing but members deeply interested in securing for themselves payments from Germany," he said.

"The United States would have been above the prejudices created by this special interest, and was, therefore, essential to the proper working of the commission. We welcomed the fact that the Committee of International Financiers appointed by the Reparations Commission last year included a distinguished American representative, and we profoundly regretted the fact that, owing to the attitude of the French Government, the committee never concluded its work or presented its report. We naturally hope, therefore, that there will be an American representative, whether official or unofficial, upon which the Reparations Committee may set up, if negotiations between the French and British Governments turn out successfully."

THE WORLD

We grumble at the world and find
Much wrong at which to grieve and jeer.
I think the poor old world's maligned,
For most of us are glad we're here.

—Detroit Free Press

I have a home—a humble place,
And far from what a home should be;
Its architecture's a disgrace,
Its plan is a monstrosity.
Its heating system doesn't work
As perfectly as one might think,
And cockroaches and beetles lurk,
Sometimes, around the kitchen sink.

I grumble at my home, and find
Much wrong at which I grieve and jeer;
I kick because I am not blind
To what is sadly out of gear.
I'm glad I'm in my home—I'd hate
To have to camp out on the street—
But shall I therefore falsely state
That everything is grand and sweet?

My grumbling's not a crime unmixed,
As now and then results will show;
I roared until the landlord fixed
The plumbing, just a week ago.
I've jeered most roundly in the past,
And got some action from my squalls—
I've howled until I've got, at last,
Some decent paper on the walls.

It's true I do not want to move—
I can't, without great sacrifice;
But tenants simply can't improve
Their lot by burbling "Ain't it nice!"
You grin, while things grow mean and old,
You criticize my restless ire—
I kick my house to bits, and mold
It nearer to my heart's desire!

THE OLD HOME TOWN

The old home town has changed some since
I left it years ago.
It took a visit to convince,
But now I know it's so.
You'd be surprised how modernized
That town has come to grow.

Smith's barn is altered, every bin
And stall's been taken down.
Today they call it Dew Drop Inn,
And it's achieved renown.
As where it's fine to dance and dine—
It's not my dear old town.

Where Jones' General Store was once
A movie house now sits,
And Lothrup Haynes, the village dunce,
Is putting on the Ritz
Because he owns it all alone
And reaps the benefits.

They're talking of a racing track,
With once around a mile.
It sets us poor old timers back,
All this new-fangled style.
The town's so spry I think that I
Will stick around a while.

Willie wasn't vaccinated—
(This perhaps applies to you);
Willie's mother vacillated—
(As our mothers often do);
Now the card's upon the door,
Willie's face is awful sore—
That's not all—for what is more—
Willie's mother has it, too.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S THANKSGIVING

"And soon will be the joyous time!" sang Uncle Wiggily one day, as he hopped through the woods near his hollow stump bungalow.

"Joyous time!" quacked Grandfather Goosey Gander, as he skimmed a little stone over the frozen duck pond. "Why so, Uncle Wiggily?" What is especially joyful?"

"Tomorrow is Thanksgiving," said the rabbit gentleman, twinkling his pink nose. "And you should see the jolly dinner Nurse Jane is going to have. Oh, you should see it!"

"Pooh. Quack. Quack! SEEING a dinner isn't very jolly," spoke the old gentleman goose. "Now if one were to EAT a Thanksgiving dinner, why, that would be quite a different matter!"

"Of course!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "What am I thinking of?" Nurse Jane told me especially to invite you to come to eat your Thanksgiving dinner with us. Will you come?"

"Oh, indeed I will," quacked Grandpa Goosey. "May I ask what you are going to have?"

"Cranberry sauce, carrot pie, turnip cake and stewed lettuce," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"I must be sure to be there," quacked Grandpa Goosey as he wiggled his tail. "Thank you for inviting me."

Thinking how jolly Thanksgiving was, especially as it was so close to Christmas, Uncle Wiggily hopped along through the woods and over the fields until he reached his hollow stump bungalow. There he saw Nurse Jane standing on the step.

"I am afraid you will be vexed with me, Uncle Wiggily," said the muskrat lady. "I gave away something of yours just now."

"Not the Thanksgiving dinner—don't say that!" begged the bunny.

"No, it wasn't that," Nurse Jane answered. "That is all right and you and Grandpa Goosey may eat it tomorrow. But I gave away your old rubber boots. A poor tramp dog came along, with no rubber boots, and I gave him your old ones."

"That was all right!" cried Uncle Wiggily heartily. "I'm glad you did."

"It made him very thankful," went on the muskrat lady.

"And this is the time to be thankful," went on Mr. Longears. "But, as I might need some rubber boots in case we had a deep snow storm, I shall hop to the store now and buy me a new pair."

Whistling a merry tune and twinkling his pink nose, Uncle Wiggily hopped back over the fields until he reached the nine and ten cent rubber boot store. There he bought himself a fine pair lined with red flannel.

"Now I shall have something to be thankful for," said the bunny as he hopped home. "I'm thankful for new rubber boots, and the tramp dog is thankful for my old ones. So it goes."

The rabbit gentleman was skipping along with his rubber boots and he was thinking what a fine Thanksgiving dinner he should have next day, when, all of a sudden, a voice called:

"Stop!"

"Eh: what's that? Who are you?" asked the bunny, keeping a tight hold of his rubber boots, for he thought it might be a Robber Snow Man after them.

"I am the Fuzzy Fox," was the answer, "and I'm going to nibble your ears! That's why I called 'stop'! I want you to wait until I have some nibbles!"

"No! no! I'm not going to stop!" cried the bunny, and away he hopped, but the Fox ran after him. No matter how fast Uncle Wiggily ran, the Fox kept close to him. And at last the bad chap caught the bunny by the back of the neck, and, reaching over, began to nibble one ear.

"Oh, stop! Stop!" begged the bunny, for it was the first time he had had his ears nibbled. "Stop!" he begged. But the Fox wouldn't stop. He kept on nibbling that one ear and then, all of a sudden, the bunny thought of something. Quickly he clapped a rubber boot over each ear, pulling them tightly down like mufflers.

"Ha! Ha! Now you won't nibble my ears any more!" laughed the bunny, and the Fox couldn't. With the rubber boots over his ears Uncle Wiggily was safe.

"Fooled again!" snarled the Fox. "But I nibbled one ear, anyhow!"

"Well, it's better to have one ear nibbled than two!" laughed the rabbit gentleman, as he hopped home.

Dr. Possum put some salve on the nibbled ear and it soon felt better. And the next day at dinner, when every one was telling what they were thankful for, Uncle Wiggily said:

"Well, I'm thankful this Thanksgiving Day that the Fox only nibbled ONE ear!"

"Good for you!" quacked Grandpa Goosey, and then he ate another slice of potato short cake. "Ha! Ha!" he laughed. "I suppose Uncle Wiggily, if the Fox had nibbled both your ears you would have been thankful that he didn't nip your pink, twinkling nose?"

"Now you can't nibble my ears any more!" laughed the bunny.

"Of course!" said Mr. Longears, and he ate some more cranberry pie. So now, if the sheep doesn't take the cow bell to call the little lambs to school, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the lollypops.

LAUDS WORK OF SERVICE BOARD

[illegible]ister, Retiring as Organization President Thanks Co-Workers

With the presidency offered to him for another term, but declined on account of other pressing business, and a unanimous vote of appreciation and thanks of his untiring efforts in conducting the affairs of Community Service of Glendale during his tenure of office tendered him, V. M. Hollister presided at the last meeting of the board of directors of that organization for the fiscal year at a luncheon in the Egyptian Village yesterday noon.

The occasion was the annual election of board members and officers for the ensuing year and the reading of the financial report, as told in yesterday's Glendale Evening News.

The following officers were elected by unanimous vote:

A. L. Baird, president; J. D. Fraser, Mrs. J. R. Case and George U. Moyse, vice presidents; Dr. Jessie A. Russell, recording secretary, (re-elected) and C. C. Cooper, treasurer.

R. Ernest Tucker, executive secretary, an appointive office, will remain in that position.

Change Constitution

The board adopted a resolution offered by President Hollister to the effect that the constitution shall be amended to make the executive board include seven members of the board of directors in addition to the six officers, as has been the practice in the past.

The financial report of Secretary Tucker showed that the total receipts for the fiscal year ending December 1 amounted to $5113.72, while the disbursements for the same period were $5103.03, leaving a balance in the treasury of $10.69. The report was unanimously adopted by the board.

Mr. Tucker asked that an auditing committee be appointed to check over the books and verify the records and close the business for 1923. By assent of the board, President Hollister will appoint the committee, it was announced.

In refusing to accept the nomination for another term, President Hollister stated that, while he intended to work and co-operate with the Community Service as earnestly as he has in the past, he desired that the guiding spirit of the organization should be in the hands of someone who has not held that office. He thanked fellow-officers and members for their untiring efforts in carrying on the work of the service and aiding him in serving the community.

Additions to Budget

Mr. Hollister pointed out that while there was a deficit of some $300, which is to be accounted for in outstanding bills which was not included in the statement, the organization will be able to prevent a recurrence of this nature during 1924, inasmuch as the Christmas tree and other expenses last year called for expenses not provided in the budget. Ample provision will be made for such items this year, he said.

Among the added work to be carried on by the organization, Mr. Hollister pointed out, and for which work provision has been made in the budget, is the newly formed Girl Scout council, which will begin functioning with a paid-up membership of twenty-five.

The board elected the entire directorate as submitted by the executive body without a single exception, it being provided that five additional members may be appointed, if desired, by the elected members.

1 KILLED; 2 HURT

KLAMATH FALLS, Dec. 5. — T. M. Brown of Dunsmuir, Cal., engineer of a Southern Pacific work train, was killed; C. C. Reno, fireman, seriously injured, and J. R. Lilly, conductor, slightly injured when a pick-up train at Kirk backed into a work train in a heavy fog.

Brown jumped, but was caught beneath a car. He died an hour later. Reno has a badly crushed shoulder and burns but is expected to recover. Both he and Lilly are in the hospital here. Their homes are in Ashland.

In surgery, one occasionally finds a short cut to fame.

CHILDREN FIRST, SPEAKERS' THEME

Recognition of Christ-Like Ideals at Christmas Time Is Urged

A plea for the primacy of childhood and a nation-wide recognition of Christ-like ideals at Christmas time was the keynote of the Christmas message brought to Tuesday Afternoon club members and guests by Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Los Angeles, who, with Mrs. Walker, was honored at the club luncheon yesterday at the clubhouse.

The third honored guest was Mrs. John Stearns Thayer, chairman of information and reciprocity of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Thayer was the first speaker introduced by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, and after a brief introduction about her active interest in program building and entertainers' bureau for the Los Angeles district, she spoke at length on child labor, voicing a plea for the childhood of the nation and urging the club women to join in its protection.

Children First

Dr. Walker, like Mrs. Thayer, placed the children foremost in his message, voicing the sentiment that Christmas should be a time of giving, in which the real meaning of the day should not be forgotten. "In a child-like spirit let us come home to God at Christmas time," he concluded.

During the meeting hour in the afternoon it was announced that at the next meeting of the club, Hugo Kirchhofer will be present to direct an hour of community singing, and that the program will be given by the Orpheus Four of Los Angeles. This quartet is from the Orpheus club, which Mr. Kirchhofer directs. At the club meeting the annual Christmas offering will be made by the club members.

Announcements of interest to the club women were that Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, club historian, has collected all the year books from 1904 to the present date; that Mrs. Julia S. Nichols of the club, has loaned two very beautiful paintings, now hung in the lounge room.

Appearing on the program yesterday were Mrs. Mary M. Wright and Miss Tilda Rohr, Swedish contralto.

Reviews Current Events

Mrs. Wright, who is a Glendale resident, is a graduate of Stanford University, a member of the Glendale College Women's club, and registrar and teacher of history at the Cumnock school in Los Angeles. She gave a comprehensive discussion of current events, discussing the foreign policy of the United States, the immigration question, independence of the Phillipine Islands, the Pan-Pacific Union, affairs in Turkey, education in the United States and other current events.

In her discussion of America's foreign policy she stated that the United States is not isolated financially, commercially or socially from Europe, but she is isolated politically and this is the unsolved question confronting the American people.

As to education, she said, "There has never been a time in the history of the world when people have tried to secure the best and newest things along educational lines as the present."

Miss Ruhr proved a most entertaining artist, singing four songs, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Sawyer. She sang "The Old Refrain" (Kriesler), "Supposing" (Bishop), "My Dearest Prayer" and "To You."

SCHOOL BARROOM

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5.—What was characterized by police as a "school barroom," was raided by detectives as a score of boys and and girls of high school age were drinking in the resort, according to a report given out at police headquarters. A large quantity of liquor was confiscated and Albert Martin, proprietor, was arrested.

To gain entrance to the resort which is located within a block of the Sacramento high school, police were forced to batter down the door, it was stated.

Inventor Tells Romance Of Little Red Wheel That Lightens Household Work

By B. E. MEACHAM

As I look back over the years of my life, and then attempt to visualize the future of the Lorain oven heat regulator, I wonder just what would happen if all mothers, fathers, friends and employers realized the great responsibility that rests upon anyone who in one way or another commands the acts, thoughts and time of other human beings.

Personally, I have never been able to make myself believe that any great amount of credit is due me for the invention of the Lorain oven heat regulator. In fact, I am positive that I am entitled only to a small share of the credit, the greater part being due my mother and the circumstances that surrounded my boyhood days; to Dr. Andrew Ure, the inventor of the thermostat; and to my employers, who so kindly gave me the opportunity necessary to develop and perfect my idea.

I was born and brought up on a farm near Norwalk, Ohio, being the eldest child of a family of seven. There may be many men who will read this article who also were the eldest of large families in ordinary circumstances. Such readers need not be told that I was the "hired girl" without pay, except for the great kindness and consideration of a loving mother and father.

Three Meals Daily

Although my mother, like most women of her day who lived on farms, assisted with the farm work, and although she kept our home scrupulously clean, I believe the labor which took most of her time and which seemed always to worry and wear her down was the cooking of three meals a day for that hungry family of seven.

And so I forgive and even praise my mother for teaching her oldest son at an early age how to cook and bake many simple, easily prepared dishes. And, frankly, I cannot say that I disliked the task. I believe that all men have much of the gambling spirit in them and cooking in those days was about 90 per cent gamble.

But mother never seemed to enjoy the gambling part of baking and getting meals. Knowing full well the limit of the family pocket-book she got anything but a thrill from taking a chance with several loaves of bread or a cake in the oven of that old coal range that did so many strange things and always unexpectedly.

It bothered me the way mother would worry after she placed something in the oven. She'd fuss with the fire, turn dampers, peek into the oven, and actually be afraid to leave the kitchen for more than a moment or two.

I remember particularly a time when we were harvesting. Sixteen big-belted and broad-chested men working in the hot sun with sweat trickling down their red faces were creating an appetite that would daunt the animal feeders of a three-ring circus.

Mother's Energy Taxed

Yet mother, working in the kitchen with little assistance, was, in proportion to her strength, giving more of her energy than those sixteen men. Mother was baking bread for those husky workers in addition to cooking the dinner—and the bread burned!

I'll never forget the look of real mental anguish and physical exhaustion that came over her face as she gazed on the ruined loaves, and right then and there I made a promise to myself that some day I would invent "something" that would prevent mothers' bakings from burning.

In the course of time I became an employe of the National Stove company division at Lorain, Ohio, and as the years roled by I gained promotion after promotion until finally I was entrusted with the responsible position of superintendent of the factory.

At that time, 1913, the company was manufacturing automatic hot water heaters as well as gas ranges, and I had been experimenting with various types of thermostats in order to get a basic idea from which I could develop one that would be superior to all others.

Discovers Solution

While sitting and pondering one day with a hot water thermostat in my hands I found my vision concentrated upon a new model of a gas range. Instantly almost, and for no reason that I have ever been able to figure out, I recalled my promise to do something to keep mother's bread from burning—and immediately something within me told me that I had the answer in my hand.

Sitting there and thinking, I soon realized that there were many things to do before a thermostat could be made a commercial proposition as an attachment to a gas range.

Thermostats made for hot water heaters require only a narrow range of temperatures. If a thermostat were to be made for regulating cooking temperatures it would be necessary to have a wide range of different heats. There was also the problem of application to the gas range and that wasn't so simple as it sounds.

Then again, the device must be made as inexpensive as possible and yet give the greatest possible degree of accuracy. Also, it must be simple in construction and foolproof in operation.

Credit to Employers

At this point of my story I must give credit to my employers. The idea was radical, to say the least, and there are many, many concerns both large and small that turn down everything but "sure thing bets" without the least investigation or consideration.

My employers, however, gave me every opportunity and assistance to develop my idea, and within a few weeks I had built a working model. Right here let me say that so carefully was the whole proposition planned, worked out and constructed that the regulator of today is practically identical with that early model.

In the very first tests the temperature of the oven was found to register correctly with the figure indicated by the metal pointer on the regulator wheel—and a very accurate high temperature thermometer was used in the test, too. But there must be something wrong, I thought. We men in engineering experimental work are not accustomed to hitting the nail on the head the very first tap.

So it was decided to make a practical endurance test and the job was given to my wife, Mrs. Meacham. For one and one-half years Mrs. Meacham experimented with that first regulator, and many unusual, interesting and amusing things occurred during that time, because you see, like a hunter in an unexplored jungle, she had absolutely nothing to guide her.

Learned Temperatures

But by trial after trial, she learned the temperatures at which certain dishes cooked best and also the lengths of time required to cook them in the oven. She was the first to use the alarm clock in connection with the regulator.

I remember one occurrence when friends called at our home and detected the appetizing odor of bread being baked. The woman in the party soon suggested that they must not stay long because Mrs. Meacham undoubtedly wanted to watch her bread so that it would not burn.

Mrs. Meacham looked at the clock and said, "Don't worry, the time's not up yet." The astonished visitor exclaimed, "Don't you watch your bread while it's baking?" "Not any more," Mrs. Meacham said. "You see, Mr. Meacham has placed a device on my stove that takes care of all that. I just put my bread in the oven, turn a small wheel until a hand points to a certain degree of temperature, which means that the oven is just so hot, and then I do what I please until time's up. I never have trouble any more with things being underdone, overdone or burned."

The visitor begged to see the stove, and, upon seeing a practical demonstration, remarked, "I wonder if your husband could fix my stove the same way. I think it's the most wonderful thing I've ever seen."

Enthusiasm Fired

This remark fired my enthusiasm. Here, for the first time, was the expression of an outside opinion on the regulator—and from a woman, too—for it would be women who would buy and use and recommend such a device. You see, I didn't place a very high value on Mrs. Meacham's enthusiasm—all good wives consider it a duty to flatter the pay envelope half of the family!

But this friend of the family was really sincere in her desire to own a gas range equipped with a regulator, and right away I had a vision of what would happen if thousands of women all over the country gathered together and heard for the first time the wonders of this little device. But my vision, big as it seemed to me at that time, could not compare with what has actually happened.

And this is the story of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, named after the city of its birth. As one of the greatest benefits ever created to save the time, work and worry of women, I feel that it owes its conception to a woman.

That is was given to mere man to work out the details is a pleasant thought to me. And I believe all who read the story will agree that the world owes a perpetual debt to its mothers.

CLOSES UP OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5.— Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced abandonment of the central business office of the state division of normal and special schools, stating that he was compelled to take such action as a result of Governor Richardson's cuts in the department's budget.

Outdoes Aladdin's Lamp

Turn the Bright RED WHEEL and the Ever Ready LORAIN Is Summoned

No Oven-Watching, No Bad Luck, No Failures

Every cook knows what it means to have to stand watch over her oven. Every cook, even the best cook, knows the meaning of "unlucky" results. Every cook knows how hard it is to duplicate each time the best bread or cake or pie she ever baked, or the best dinner she ever served.

Fancy, then, owning a magic wheel that forever ends gas oven-watching, forever banishes "unlucky" days from the kitchen, and gives you such accuracy in cooking that you equal your very best results every time—perhaps even excel them.

The magic wheel does all this—the magic red wheel whose name is Lorain.

Good Cooking Made Easy

Lorain measures and controls gas oven heats. All you do is to put food into the gas oven and then when it is deliciously ready to serve, take it out.

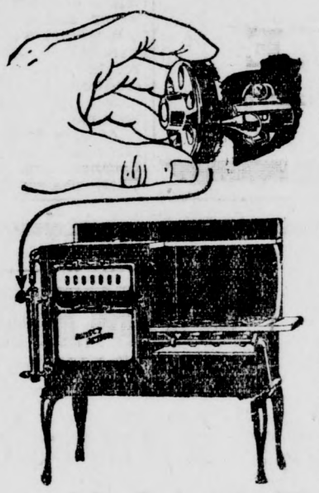
Bread, cake, pie—or an entire meal of meat, vegetables and dessert at one time—even canning of fruits and vegetables—all these are easy successes for the Lorain. And you need never look into your oven a single time while the food is cooking.

Wonderful—Yet Simple

Cooking experts praise Lorain as the greatest cooking discovery in many years, yet Lorain does not take an expert to use it. Anybody who cooks can understand a Lorain in two minutes.

But the time and the work Lorain saves and the joy it brings in better food and happier homes, why, that takes a book to tell the facts. We want you to have a copy of the book about this magic red wheel. It's here waiting for you.

Aladdin and Lorain



—One but a dream of a past that could but dream; Lorain, a fairy of science, is serving daily thousands and thousands of American housewives.

LORAIN Pays for the Whole Range

with the gas that's saved. Leaking and wasting through the burners of your old range is more gas than Lorain uses to cook a whole meal.

—When Lorain bakes bread, the meter only runs about 20 minutes out of the hour.

—Genius, too, has for you: no bottom in oven, to save more fuel, prevent rust, pies boiling over, etc.

—Which will you choose, a cooking device of the past or the magic discoveries of the present?

Battery Stations to Charge for Service

Beginning January 1, 1924, a number of the leading battery service stations in Glendale will charge their clients a nominal fee for testing, watering and inspecting the batteries of automobiles, according to an announcement that appears in today's advertising columns of The Glendale Evening News.

In the past, it is pointed out, this service has been extended free to automobile owners, but, in order to maintain the best possible service, the owners of the various battery stations associated in this plan will collect a charge commensurate with the work they are called on to do. In their advertisement, they appeal to the car owner's sense of justice in placing their program before him, and representatives of the various houses concerned are confident that the motorist will meet them in a spirit of fairness and with full recognition of the justice of their attitude.

The firms who are taking this step are Gateway Automotive Company, Sherman-Bond Auto Electric Company, Psenner Brothers, Blockburn Battery & Electric Station, Parker & Black, Gardner Auto Electric Company, Glendale Battery & Ignition Works, Westinghouse Battery Station, Bob's Battery & Ignition Works.

First official issue of United States stamps was made in 1842, they bore a portrait of Washington, and were of the value of three cents.

Lutheran Missionary Society Holds Meet

Mrs. H. C. Funk was in charge of the program given Sunday night at the First Lutheran church by the Women's Missionary society.

Mrs. E. C. Bentz was the principal speaker, giving an address on "Thank Offering." A number of the Sunday school children also took part, giving recitations.

One of the special numbers was a soprano solo by Miss Margarete Nielsen of Seattle, who has come to Glendale for the winter. Accompanied by Miss Mary Sherrick she sang "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" (Liddle.)

made to the Sea of Galilee, 700 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. En route views were gained of the village of Cana of Galilee and of the mountain, the site of the "Sermon on the Mount," called by the natives "Mount of Blessing." The town of Tiberius was visited and also the ruins of Bethsaida and Capernaum.

Combining ancient and modern interest was one experience related by Miss Rouzee in her account of leaving Tiberius for French Syria. On one part of the trip it was necessary to travel by water, and Miss Rouzee and her companions were transported in a fisherman's craft, and when they reached the shore they were ushered to a 1923 Big Six Studebaker, driven by a Bedouin in a native costume.

After a train trip, the city of Damascus, at the foot of the Lebanon mountains, was reached. There was seen the "Street Called Straight," and, going on to Baalbec, the feature was a visit to the ruins of the Temple of Baal.

Miss Rouzee's description of these ruins was most interesting. The temple is built upon a hill and, in constructing it, a substructure fifty feet in height was built. She told of one huge piece of stone in the terrace being sixty-two feet long, thirteen feet wide and fourteen feet high. Another piece of stone not yet removed from the quarry, was seventy-two feet long, seventeen feet wide and fourteen feet high, and would have had to be moved a half mile to the temple.

At this point Miss Rouzee bade her listeners farewell until the next meeting date, Tuesday morning, December 18, when she will tell of her visit to the British museum, where she says one can find convincing evidence of the history and authenticity of the Scripture.

Mrs. Charles H. Temple, curator of the section, has issued a special invitation to all club members and friends to hear Miss Rouzee at this pre-Christmas meeting, to be held in the auditorium of the clubhouse.

The carnival dance last Saturday night proved to be a brilliant success.

UP TO HIGHER COURT

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5.— The suit of the state in the Henrietta Watkins estate case to determine whether federal estate taxes should be deducted before the state tax is computed, will be carried to the United States supreme court, it was announced by Ralph Smith, state inheritance tax attorney. Loss of the suit would cost the state more than $1,000,000, Smith said.

HOLIDAY DRIVE NOW UNDER WAY

P.-T. A. of Utah School in Annual Campaign For Aid of Children

The annual Christmas drive for the benefit of the Utah street school, Los Angeles, was launched at the Parent-Teacher association meeting held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Eagle Rock school, Mrs. J. C. Reiter, president, presiding.

It was brought out that this school, located in the Mexican district, has an enrollment of 1700 pupils, many of them in real need. Mrs. Reiter urged that no pains be spared to make happy at the holiday season these little ones whose advantages are few.

Money will be received as well as articles of clothing and other gifts, it was stated.

The musical program, in charge of Mrs. R. J. Lippold, was particularly pleasing.

It was reported that the clothing donated during the Harvest Home Festival has been sent to the College avenue school, Los Angeles.

Seek Criminal Here

Valentine, alias "Speck" Wiley, said to be a tailor by trade and wanted in Chouteau county, Mont., for receiving stolen property, is thought to be lurking in or around Eagle Rock, according to information received by the local police department from George Brundage, well-known sheriff of Chouteau county.

It is claimed by Sheriff Brundage that Wiley once had close friends in this community. A reward of $50 is offered for his arrest and conviction.

The home of Vance Bucker at 2130 Hill drive was burglarized Saturday night, November 24, the loot comprising old jewelry, $20 in cash and an Elgin watch. While plying his trade, the thief paused to smoke a cigaret, as evidenced by ashes found on the carpet.

The Eagle Rock community song movement has been postponed until after the holidays, it is announced.

De Vol Gives Street Maps

New street maps, giving the changes in nomenclature, indexed with the old, are being distributed free by H. L. De Vol, one of Eagle Rock's best boosters, from his real estate office at 2124 Colorado boulevard. Mr. De Vol is also sending away several hundred, which he hopes will serve to bring a number of new residents to the community.

Cans, bottles and other noncombustible rubbish is vanishing under the hands of M. LeMoyne, holder of the local bond for garbage and can collection. The Chamber of Commerce is understood to have persuaded Mr. LeMoyne to clean up this rubbish.

Cortland S. Fox of Eagle Rock and Miss Leila Mae Spriegel, of Pasadena, were quietly married Saturday, November 24, at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. George W. Fox, 225 West Hill avenue, Rev. B. B. Weatherall performing the ceremony. The young couple will make their home in San Pedro.

IMPROVEMENTS ON FAIRMONT ROAD

Concrete Paving to Be Laid By Officials of Benmar Hills, Is Report

Fairmont road, the approach to the high school, long in need of repairs, is now being graded for a width of ninety feet and will be paved in concrete or its equivalent, according to officials of the Benmar Hills company, in charge of the work.

The stage of the improvements at the present time, clearly indicates what a fine street this will be and residents of the district are expressing themselves as delighted with the progress shown.

Curbs and sidewalks are a part of the improvements, it is understood.

U. P. Agent Talks

Reporting that his company was doing a satisfactory business in Burbank, C. A. Redmond, Union Pacific district passenger agent, of Glendale, told residents of this city at a recent Rotary club luncheon that there was as yet nothing definite in the rumor that the company planned to extend its lines on to Burbank.

He intimated, however, that two high officials of the company will soon be in this locality—H. N. Adams, vice-president, and W. S. Bassinger, passenger traffic manager, of Omaha.

Mr. Redmond also spoke of the new electric locomotive, No. 22, now operating in conjunction with the Glendale & Montrose electric railway company, on the U. P.'s Glendale line.

Y. Boys Annext Trophies

Boys of the Burbank Y. M. C. A. returned from the Alhambra round-up with a fine record, annexing three trophies, one of them the banner for having the best group of boys.

The other two trophies were first prize for the best camp and first prize in woodcraft, the latter won by Kenneth Manley. Such honors, feel local residents, are a credit to the city and speak well for the men who have helped the boys to their high plane in the district organization.

The trip to Alhambra was accomplished in a covered wagon. Journeying to Glendale, they were joined by two more of these vehicles. They were accompanied by E. B. Thomas, principal of the John Muir school, and Rev. Thomas E. Stevenson of the Presbyterian church.

A picturesque feature of the trip was camping out Friday night on the Alhambra high school grounds.

PAINTINGS SHOW SEA ATMOSPHERE

Works of George Coleman in Club's Banquet Hall Win Admiration

Real atmosphere of the blue Pacific has been put on canvas by George Coleman, California artist of Balboa Beach, who has an exhibit of marine views hung in the banquet hall at the Tuesday Afternoon club, through the courtesy of the Fine Arts Section of the club with Mrs. Roy Ballagh, curator.

Mr. Coleman's pictures were displayed for the first time yesterday, when the Fine Arts Section met in the morning and entertained him as honored guest. Later the pictures were enjoyed and complimented by the club members meeting for luncheon and the afternoon business hour and program.

Many Seascapes

The exhibit includes "Schooner at Sea," "The Seiners," [illegible] sale, and perhaps the finest of work on display; "Beating to Windward," "In Port," "Lumber Schooner at San Pedro," "The Red Sail," "Out of the Fog," "Mid-day Calm," "The Fish Harbour," "Abandoned," "The Inlet," "Fishing Among the Ground Swells," "Running Free," "At Redfish Hole," "At the Mooring," and "Low Tide."

During the section meeting yesterday the club women studied the life and works of Gilbert Stuart.

Girl Scout Council to Stage Big Rally

Arrangements are nearing completion for the Girl Scout rally to be held Saturday night at the high school under the auspices of the newly organized Girl Scout council and the Community Service. Stunts will be put on by members of the different troops.

Members of the troop at La Crescenta, of which Mrs. Jessie Hanson is captain, are to be guests. The rally is open to all members of the community who are interested in this branch of social service.

Mrs. F. A. Beach, the newly elected commissioner, extends a special invitation to all girls interested in scouting and to all women interested in organizing new troops.

Campaign's Second Period Ends Saturday

the campaign manager, for Monday the ballot box will be locked and sealed and placed in one of the banks where it will remain until the final day of the campaign.

Club members are advised and urged to use every effort possible this week to secure the subscriptions before the credits take another drop. Don't forget that the second period will close Saturday night, December 8th.

After reading this you still have plenty of time to secure a few more clubs of subscriptions and I can personally assure you that if you are one who has been working it will make a lot of difference in your final standing when the last day rolls around and the final counting has been made.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

WASHING FLUIDS ARE POISONS

Do you always put your lye preparations, which you use for laundry purposes or any other purposes, safely out of reach of your children? Do you always wash out very thoroughly the dish which you use to measure the lye? If you do not, mothers, you may regret it intensely.

Lye can cause the most terrible burns. There are too many children dying from starvation because of the carelessness of mothers leaving lye preparations around. Children have swallowed just a few drops of lye solution left carelessly in the measuring cup, and the scar tissue from the burns in the esophagus (tube—gullet—leading to the stomach) has contracted the tube so that sometimes not even water can get by it.

In a paper which was prepared by one of the physicians in charge of the Bronchoscopic Clinic in Philadelphia, there is a report of twenty cases sent to the clinic during the past sixteen months. A few of these histories will be instructive.

A boy of three was sent to the clinic on account of inability to swallow solid foods and the beginning difficulty of swallowing liquid foods. Three weeks before admission to the clinic the child's mother, while using lye for cleaning purposes, was called to answer the telephone. During this brief interval the child either ate some lye or drank some of the lye solution. His lips and mouth were severely burned. Since the accident he had been unable to swallow solid foods and liquids were taken with difficulty. There had been a gradual loss of weight and at admission the child was very pale, under-nourished and quite ill. X-Ray examinations showed a marked narrowing of the esophagus. In order to nourish the child, he had to be operated upon and an opening made into his abdominal wall.

Another case was a girl of two years. About twelve weeks before she was brought to the clinic, the child's mother was using lye to make soap and pouring the solution into cups. The child drank from one of the cups which was previously emptied, but still contained a few drops of the solution. This child was also severely burned and could not take any solids or liquids. She also had to be fed through an opening cut into the stomach.

Still one other case to illustrate this importance of keeping lye out of reach of children. A boy, aged 9, was brought to the clinic on account of marked loss of weight and inability to swallow anything but liquids. When four years old he accidentally took some lye in coffee, mistaking it for sugar. He had received no treatment of any kind since the accident, and his condition was brought to the attention of the Red Cross during the medical examination of school children in a rural school. In order to save this child's life, he also had to be fed through the cut in the stomach.

In some of the cases reported the physicians were able to stretch the esophagus by passing into it instruments made for that purpose. If this is impossible then the patient must be permanently fed through the opening in the abdominal wall. This, or death.

Wouldn't you think that preparations so terribly poisonous as these would be labeled with the "poison scare" label, with warnings to keep out of reach of children, as are other poisons? They are not so labeled!

These terrible disasters which I have told you about can be traced to the fact that the mothers do not realize the poisonous nature of these preparations, because they are not labeled poisonous. We must do something about this.

Individual mothers, parent teachers organizations, and women's clubs, write to your state representatives calling attention to this urgent need for a law compelling the manufacturers of these preparations to label them with "poison scare" labels.

FOR THE PRINTED SILKS

A model that looks well in the printed silks and calls for a touch of plain color is artistically portrayed here. The dress is of the slip-on type, and the soft, crushed girdle, with beaded motifs at the sides, corresponds with the band that finishes the lower edge of the tunic blouse. Deep sections that are slashed at the back and gathered into narrow cuff-bands lengthen the kimono sleeves. Medium size requires 4 3-4 yards figured and 3-4 yard 36-inch plain material.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1770. Sizes 34 to 46 inches bust. Price 45 cents.

NEWLY ARRIVED FROM PARIS

An interesting version of the practical coat-frock is pictured here. It is developed in embroidered twill, trimmed with a deep collar of plain satin and flat silk braid. The right front of the dress is laid in plaits at the front edge and lapped over the left front under a beaded ornament. The back is laid in plaits, which are folded over the under-arm seams. Because of the long lines and slight draperies, this design could be smartly duplicated in velvet. Medium size requires, 3⅞ yards 36-inch material, with 5½ yards braid.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1352. Sizes 34 to 44 inches bust, and 16 to 20 years. Price 35c.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been invited to an informal dance and I don't know whether to wear a dark silk skirt and Russian blouse, or a silk crepe dress of old blue. What would you advise me to choose? POPINKA.

It seems to me the silk crepe dress would be more appropriate for a dance than the skirt and blouse.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When I was in my teens I met a girl about two years younger who loved me deeply from the start and refused to marry others better financially situated. I never cared to marry her and even told her so, but she never faltered in her love. When I was hardly twenty-one, and not able financially to support her, her love over-persuaded me and we were married.

I continued with my pleasures and participated in many folly parties. She always preferred to stay at home and not mix with anybody. We continued like this for five years, her love never faltering.

Then I realized that I had the best wife in the world, and I determined not to lose her by my foolishness under any conditions. But the strange thing was that the better I treated her the worse she treated me, and the less she seemed to care for me. I did all in my power to make her happy, and learned to love her more and more every day. Finally she left me and went back to her folks. I have begged her to come back, but she will not. She seems to want to do the very opposite of what I want. We are not divorced, but she threatens that. She says that all the love she had for me has gone to some one big enough to take it. What is your advice? DISAPPOINTED.

Since your wife is so contrary, she may be influenced by a scare. Stop trying to get her to return to you and let her think that you have accepted her verdict and are satisfied. It seems to me that you and your wife are lacking in compatability, however, since it takes so much maneuvering to live in happiness together. Probably you will have to hold your love in restraint from now on, if you expect to keep her love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years old and have been going with a boy four years my senior. This boy only cares to see me once a week, although he lives only a few blocks from me. Sometimes I have had two dates a week with him, but not often.

He has never told me that he loved me, but has said quite a few things that sound that way. He owns a car and so we ride almost every time he comes. He doesn't try to "pet" as most boys do, but he kisses me before leaving.

Do you think he loves me?

He has asked me not to go with many other boys, but has never asked me to stop going with all of them. He doesn't go with other girls. I think a lot of him and would like to be with him more. Can you tell me any way to see more of him? FUZZIE.

The young man is certainly interested in you, but it is difficult to judge the extent of his regard. Do not try to make him come to see you more often, because he will feel you are infringing on his independence. It never pays to rush matters of love.

Beauty Chats

ATTRACTIVE ARMS

Are your arms as attractive as you would like? If not, it is a comparatively easy matter to make them so. If you are very much too thin or very much too fat you cannot hope to have really beautiful arms until you are somewhere near your correct weight. However, assuming that you should weigh 130 you can be as low as 115 or as much as 140 without spoiling the contour of the arms.

If the arms are not beautiful in shape the quickest and easiest way to make them so is to exercise. Almost any sort of vigorous arm exercises will do. I will not stop to suggest any today. If the skin is not white and fine in texture there are a great many little tricks that will make it so.

The arms should be scrubbed every day with a small, fairly stiff complexion brush, hot water and a good soap. The vigorous action of the bristles of the brush will stimulate the skin and let it throw off all the impruities that have been clogging the pores and making the skin coarse grained or a bad color. If they are very bad it is a good plan to rub them with olive oil, and then to wash off the oil with soap, hot water and the stiff bristled brush. If the arms are a bad color from sunburn or from the dyes in dark dresses rub them with oil, wash off the oil, then make a paste of white laundry starch and let it dry for half an hour. This will bleach the skin white.

Beautiful arms are not possible if the elbows are ugly. These suggested treatments will also keep them smooth looking and clean. If they are very bony rub with cocoa butter or soak for ten minutes in olive oil every day. Vanishing cream rubbed into the elbows will give them a temporarily smooth and attractive appearance.

Maud: Rather than leave cream on the face overnight, it is best to massage the skin with finger tips until the pores have taken up all the cream that they will absorb. Whatever remains on the skin should be removed with a soft cloth. After this dash very cold water over the face and throat to close the pores again. There is no advantage in retaining cream on the skin after it has taken up what is needed.

Pretty arms must have pretty elbows.

M. A. C.: If you read the formula again you will see that it must have been intended to advertise one of the ingredients.

Tomorrow—Keeping Young.

With the Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

Although radio engineering is a comparatively new field even for men, one woman has already pioneered in the art. She is Miss Mary Texanna Loomis, of Washington, D. C., and she is the only woman, so far as known, to own and manage a successful radio engineering college.

Tired of sticking to the beaten paths, Miss Loomis decided to blaze the trail for other women along new lines. Her knowledge of radio engineering is such that her male associates acknowledge her leadership.

Men and Women Equal in Mentality

Anthropologists and physchologists seem to be rather generally agreed that all recent studies of the question of the relative mental capacity of men and women show that the intellectual capacity of women is quite equal to that of men. Intelligence tests among students and other classes seem to prove this. The average size of the brain of women is somewhat below that of men, but size of brain seems to have no direct relation to intelligence.

Urges Women For Aldermen

Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, noted for her progressive ideals, is of the opinion that New York needs at least twenty women members on the board of aldermen, replacing that many men now holding such office. Mrs. Tiffany is president of the New York League of Women Voters, and says being an alderwoman would take no more time than being on the board of a hospital or any similar position that women find no difficulty in filling.

Miss Grace Li, daughter of Li Yuan-Hung, president of China, is attending Wellesley college. In contravention of the custom of protecting the daughters of the rulers of China with troops of attendants, Miss Li arrived with only one companion, a girl of twenty-one. The girls have rented a half bed-room in a side street.

"Baked Tuna Royal: Turn one can of tomato soup into a bowl and season it to taste with salt, pepper and a drop or two of Worcester sauce. Now place in a baking dish or casserole two heaping cups of cooked rice, arranging this rice in a circle so as to leave a cavity in the middle of the dish; in this cavity put the contents of one can of tuna fish. Pour the seasoned tomato soup over all, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs, cover the dish and bake for 30 minutes in a hot oven. I am sure other Column Readers will find this dish delicious." Contributed by Mrs. M. M.

Bean Soup: Use the black Mexican beans if your grocer has them, or the kidney beans. To one pint of beans add four quarts of water and one can of chicken soup. Also add two slices of lean bacon or the hock which is cut off a strip of ham. Let this mixture boil till the beans are very tender, adding a little boiling water if the liquid evaporates considerably. In the meantime boil two eggs hard, slice them up into rings, and drop them into the hot soup just before it is served; also flavor the soup with one-fourth teaspoon of bruised celery seed and a very little minced red pepper. Some housewives like one-fourth cup of tomato catsup in this soup, as well. This is very nourishing and delicious.

Olive Oil Biscuits: Sift two teaspoons of baking powder with two heaping cups of bread flour and one-half teaspoon of salt. Mix together one cup of sweet milk and four tablespoons of olive oil, then add this liquid mixture to the dry flour mixture. Stir till well blended, then turn the dough out onto a floured bread board and pat down to the required thickness (do not roll. One-half inch high is about right.) Cut with a biscuit cutter and place the small discs of dough in a greased pan. Slip the pan into a hot oven to bake for about ten minutes.

Muffins Made with Vegetable Cooking Oil: Sift together one-fourth cup of sugar, one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt and one and one-half cups of flour. Stir into this three-quarters of a cup of sweet milk, three tablespoons of any good cooking oil on the market, and one beaten egg. Turn into buttered muffin pans and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

1 DEAD; 1 MAY DIE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—A midnight automobile ride ended tragically when the car skidded from the highway on Telegraph road, collided with a telephone pole and resulted in the death of Lon S. Van Buren, 18 year old Whittier high school boy.

Jess Melton, another Whittier high school boy and a friend of young Van Buren may die from injuries he received in the accident. Jack Van Buren, 24, older brother of the boy killed, was the third occupant of the car. He was bruised and badly cut.
